

Goodland Vote Defeats Heil's Gross Tax Bill

Lieutenant Governor
Twice Breaks 14

SECOND DEFEAT

Special Session May be
State Budget

Madison—Twice in less than 24 hours Republican Lieutenant Governor Walter S. Goodland cast the deciding votes which defeated Governor Heil's gross income tax bill. Late yesterday afternoon he broke a 14 to 14 tie vote, and this morning, when the bill was reconsidered, he broke the tie a second time.

Legislators heard for the first time official warnings that state employees might go unpaid after December unless revenue was provided to help balance the state budget. The gross income tax plan will not be dead until the senate takes a decisive stand for the rules permit reconsideration as often as the senate wishes. If it passes the bill and sends it to the assembly the same rules will be in force there.

Senator the second defeat Senator Mueller (Rep.) Wausau, chairman of the finance committee, moved reconsideration and the motion was adopted 15 to 12.

Changes Mind
Senator Gawronski (Dem.) Milwaukee, who voted for the revenue mind and made a statement in which he said:

"I stuck my neck out while members of the Republican party, upon whom the destinies of the state rest, refused to do so. We made a serious mistake. The public had nothing to say about it."

Gawronski referred to the fact that the tax plan was introduced as an amendment to the old age pension bill and was not given public hearings.

Senator Gettelman (Rep.) Milwaukee declared that gross income taxes—similar to those now in effect in Indiana—had been discussed at pension hearings before legislative committees.

"I don't want state employees after Dec. 1 to be blaming us if they have to work without salary and I am against going home without providing money for pensions," said Gettelman, who supported the revenue plan.

"Governor Heil's heart is in the right place and he is doing his level best. He was pretty blue yesterday. The fellows who promised to support him went back on him. I was with the governor in his office yesterday. He stood by the window and said: 'See those state employees going out. They might not be paid after Dec. 1.'"

While Progressives on the minority side of the chamber chortled in satisfaction, bedraggled administration warriors who found themselves outvoted for the seventh successive time this session spent their anger in denunciation of Goodland, who cast the deciding vote to kill the gross income tax bill, and a few Coalition members who balked at the last minute.

Won't Come Back

One senator, Taylor Brown of Oshkosh, a Republican from the Winnebago-Calumet county district, yelled loud enough for all to hear that "I'll resign before I'll come back here again. I won't be here tomorrow, and no one can bring me back. For nine months we've been playing penny ante politics. I'm through."

Although the administration appeared confident throughout the day that it could muster enough votes to pass the gross income tax rider to the old age pension bill, the final tally showed a 14 to 14 tie.

"When the clerk called, 'Mr. President,' rugged, independent Walter Goodland, elected last fall as a Democratic-Republican Coalition candidate, replied firmly and loudly: 'No.'"

Majority Leader Maurice Coakley of Beloit promptly moved for adjournment, amid exclamations of anger and impatience from the other administration regulars.

Coakley was heard to say that "it's a fine thing to find at the last

Dies Will Ask List of Reds From Foster

Tolerate Agencies of Foreign Powers

ALSO NAMES BUND
Communist Chief Justifies
Soviet Entrance Into Poland

Washington—(P)—Chairman Dies (D-Texas) said today the house committee on un-American activities would make a formal demand on William Z. Foster, Communist party chairman, for a list of the party's members in the United States.

Action would be taken, Dies added, because the United States should "no longer tolerate agencies of foreign powers which form potential espionage and sabotage systems."

He said that Fritz Kuhn, German-American Bund leader, would be called on for a list of his organization's members. The committee contended Kuhn has failed to submit a list of Bund posts with their officers as he had promised.

Foster told the Dies committee today that Russia's entrance into Poland was justified "100 per cent," and said its action meant the establishment of a "free government" for Poland which it never had before.

Foster made these statements as the committee sought to determine the connection between the communist international in Russia and the party in this country.

Defends Communists
"The communist parties everywhere, if left to themselves, would adopt a position 100 per cent identical with that of the American party on a given question," the witness testified.

"If the Communist parties were isolated and left alone, they would all come to an agreement on the Soviet-German non-aggression pact," asked Dies.

Foster answered in the affirmative.

In answer to further questions by Dies, Foster said that there was no united front between communists and fascists and remarked that the current conflict was an "imperialistic war."

"Do you consider the Japanese war in China imperialistic?"

"Yes."

The witness went on to say that for many years, the Soviet Union had tried to make non-aggression pacts with Japan, England and other countries.

Under questioning by J. B. Matthews, committee investigator, Foster said that he had heard only two

Medical Body in Favor of Review

On Government's Monopoly
Charges

Washington—(P)—The American Medical Association told the supreme court today it was willing for the tribunal to review the government's charges of a medical monopoly.

The government has appealed from a lower court decision which dismissed the suit's charges of conspiracy to restrain trade. The district court here ruled that the anti-trust act applied to "restraint of trade" whereas medicine was a "learned profession" rather than a trade.

Joined by two affiliated societies and a group of individual physicians, the medical association told the tribunal:

"Respondents agree that the issues in this case are exceedingly important and their prompt determination would be in the public interest. . . Respondents, therefore, do not oppose the issuance of a writ of certiorari."

Whether the court will review the case is expected to be announced on Oct. 16.

CIO Auto Workers Victors In Chrysler Labor Election; Leaders See Peace in Industry

Detroit—(P)—A sweeping CIO victory in the national labor relations board's poll of Chrysler Corporation employees was hailed today by union leaders as a "repudiation" of the A. F. of L. and the beginning of a new era of peace in the automobile industry.

R. J. Thomas, president of the CIO United Automobile Workers, said that as a result of the election, in which the U.A.W.-CIO polled approximately 80 per cent of the valid votes, the union "is now the exclusive bargaining spokesman for more than half the workers in the automobile industry."

Richard T. Frankenstein, director of the Chrysler department, U.A.W.-CIO, said that "given good faith on the part of the employer, the auto industry ought now to be able to look forward to a period of stable and equitable labor relations."

The result, Thomas declared, "is a complete repudiation of the dual

Condition of Man Hurt in Accident Reported 'Better'

Police Conclude From Tire Marks Cars Traveled
In Opposite Directions

Menasha—The condition of Theodore F. Drolshagen, 51, 221 Cleveland street, who was critically injured in an accident which took three lives at 11:25 Wednesday night near the state hospital at Winnebago, was reported as "a little better" today at Mercy hospital, Oshkosh. Drolshagen suffered two broken legs, a severe chest injury, and other injuries.

From tire marks on the highway, Captain Irving Stulp, of the Winnebago county police, concluded that Ewald Anderson, 428 Eighth street, Neenah, one of the three men killed, was driving south while Drolshagen was going north on County Trunk A. Anderson apparently skidded on the curve, Captain Stulp said, and the cars sideswiped.

The body of Ewald Anderson was taken this morning to South Bend, Ind., where funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon. Anderson came to Neenah from South Bend about 24 years ago.

Funeral services for the two Menasha men killed in the accident, Julius Schierl and John David Clark, will be held Saturday morning. The services for Clark will be at 8:30 at the Laemmrich Funeral home and at 9 o'clock a solemn high mass will be said at St. Patrick's Catholic church. Burial will be in St. Margaret cemetery, Neenah.

Services for Schierl will be held at 9:45 Saturday morning at the Laemmrich Funeral home and at 10:15 at St. Mary's Catholic church. The Rt. Rev. Msgr. John Hummel will conduct the services. Burial will be in the parish cemetery.

Establish Mutual Frontier in Conquered Nation

3 MAIN PROVISIONS

'Necessary Measures' May Include Bid for Peace Conference

Berlin—(P)—The Polish garrison of some 120,000 men started marching out of Warsaw tonight, according to reports reaching Berlin from the eastern front.

The Poles were marching into captivity. Germans estimated it would take two or three days before the capital would be emptied of its surrendered defenders.

Small groups of Poles still were offering resistance to the German forces, including about 2,000 on the Hela peninsula.

Berlin—(P)—Germany and Soviet Russia, having split Poland between them, threatened today to "consult each other as to necessary measures" unless Great Britain and France accept peace.

A new three-sided treaty cementing further the Nazi-communist partnership was reported by DNB, official German news agency, to have been signed in Moscow today.

The treaty, according to the agency's text:

1. Put Germany and Russia side by side in urging France and Britain to end the war and, if they refuse, in cooperating to restore peace;

2. Established a mutual German-Russian frontier in conquered Poland, wiping that country from Europe's map;

3. Fledged Germany and Russia to work out an economic program so that "the volume of the German-Soviet exchange of goods will again attain a high peak."

DNB said the treaty concluded negotiations between German Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop, Joseph Stalin and Russian Premier-Foreign Commissar Vyacheslav Molotov.

Await Nazis Entry
The peace overture to the western powers was issued as a joint declaration of the two governments and came as more than 1,000,000 civilians and 120,000 disarmed defenders of Warsaw helplessly awaited the triumphant entry of the German army into non-existent Poland's surrendered capital.

After the German reich's government and the government of the U. S. S. R., through a treaty signed today, definitely solved questions resulting from the disintegration of the Polish state and thereby established a secure foundation for permanent peace in eastern Europe," DNB quoted the treaty, "they unanimously voice their opinion that it:

Rumania Bolsters Bessarabian Area With Mobile Corps

Bucharest—(P)—Rumania strengthened her Bessarabian border defense today by replacing the Fifth Army corps with the more highly mechanized and mobile second corps.

(Bessarabia, an area of 17,146 square miles, was gained by Rumania from Russia at the end of the World War. Russians steadfastly have considered it "occupied territory." It extends in northeastern Rumania from the Polish border—now occupied by Russian troops—on the north to the Black sea on the south.)

The Rumanian government has begun transferring government records from Bessarabian cities, but asserted the action had no connection with the present situation. Rather it said it was merely a continuation of the policy of centralizing the archives.

Strengthening of the Bessarabian border force came just a day after the appointment of a new Rumanian premier, Constantine Argetoianu.

Argetoianu began his career in the Rumanian diplomatic service by playing an important role in drawing Rumania to the side of the allies in the World War.

Schafer Will Fight Neutrality Measure

Washington—(P)—The house has been warned by Congressman Schafer (R-Wis.) that he was preparing an attack on the administration-proposed neutrality act.

He gained unanimous consent to insert in the Congressional Record a statement on the "New Deal credit and carry war promotion bill," including excerpts of statements by undersecretary of State Sumner Welles. It probably will be ready next Monday, he said.

Senator Wiley (R-Wis.) accused "reckless, pseudo-leaders" in America of hampering peace as much as foreign agents who would like to see the United States involved in the European war.

British Observers See Little Chance Russo-German Peace Proposals Will be Accepted

London—(P)—British diplomatic circles professed little surprise today at what they called Soviet Russia's "veiled threat" to enter the European war unless Great Britain and France agree to Germany's peace terms.

Although there was no official comment on announcement of an agreement in Moscow between Germany and Russia, informed sources said recent diplomatic reports had forecast such a development.

The reported new Berlin-Moscow accord came shortly after an authoritative announcement last night that Ivan Maisky, Soviet ambassador to London, had assured the British government Russia was willing to start negotiations for a war trade agreement.

Sources close to the government saw little chance any peace offer by Germany and Russia would be accepted.

They argued Britain's long-term war plans showed this country was determined to end Hitlerism, and that it could not consider peace proposals at least until the former status of Poland was restored.

British fighter planes were reported today to have driven off two attempts by German warplanes to raid the coast of Scotland.

Girl Scouts Given Lease on Property for Permanent Camp

Realization of a dream for many years of those interested in the Girl Scout movement in Appleton came with the announcement today by Appleton Girl Scout council of the gift of an indefinite lease on property in the northern part of Wisconsin by Wisconsin Midland Paper company for a permanent Girl Scout camp.

The property which covers an area of about 175 acres is located 110 miles north of Appleton on a peninsula in White Rapids lake in the Menominee river, and is a part of the Chalk Hill and White Rapids hydroelectric plants of the power company. The land is being leased to the Appleton Girl Scouts without cost for as long as they wish to use it.

The topography of the site is admirably suited for use as a girls camp, since there are a number of natural camp sites on the peninsula itself and outside of a few knolls the peninsula is almost uniformly level. It lies wholly within a wild life refuge which has been dedicated and is supervised by the Wisconsin Conservation commission so far as wild life is concerned, and therefore hunting within the camp site is illegal. The peninsula is closely wooded, and along the shore line and in the cleared areas there

Welfare Board Members Get O. K.

Five Men and Two Women
Of Senate

Madison—(P)—Governor Heil's appointments of five men and two women to the new state welfare board were confirmed today by the senate.

Prof. Lloyd V. Ballard, appointed for a four-year term after William Dougherty, Janesville, withdrew for business reasons, was the only member confirmed unanimously. The vote was 29 to 0. Ballard is head of the Beloit college sociology department.

Other members, length of their terms, and the vote follows: Charles H. Liehe, Chippewa Falls, two years, 18 to 0; Mrs. Yvonne Town, Wausau, two years 26 to 0; Mrs. Erma Stoddard, Beaver Dam, four years, 21 to 6; R. J. Everhardt, Whitewater, six years, 21 to 6; Herman A. Klopman, Crivitz, six years, 22 to 5; Frank W. Waberszewski, of Milwaukee, six years, 20 to 7.

Mrs. Town was named today in place of William L. Coffey, manager of Milwaukee county institutions, who declined on the ground he could not spare time from his present work.

Johns Plans to Make Transcontinental Hop

Boston—(P)—Grounded recently by civil aerodromics authorities while preparing for a trans-Atlantic flight, Neuman "Pat" Johnson, a Wisconsin representative, announced today he had received an experimental license and would undertake a transcontinental flight in two weeks.

Johns said the flight would start at the municipal airport, San Francisco, and cover 3,100 miles over the southern route to Roosevelt field, New York. The trip, if completed, he said, might establish a transcontinental distance record for his type of plane.

The young flier, son of Congressman Joshua L. Johns, of Algoma, Wis., said he was taking off today for Chicago, where he planned to have a new gas tank installed in his plane.

Rogers said arrangements were being made to send abroad certain technical units from the auxiliary troops which have been mobilized. They eventually will form part of the overseas forces.

A 19-year-old mother accused Strutz of having dragged her into his automobile Aug. 27 and making advances to her. She escaped by leaping from the machine, she told police.

Moscow to 'Consult' With Nazis if War Continues

DIVIDE POLAND

Agreement Seen as Implied Threat of Military Aid to Berlin

Paris—(P)—Jules Lukasiewicz, Polish ambassador to Paris, appealed to France today to reject the German-Russian bid for peace on the basis of partition of Poland.

He called "a foreign ministry with a note declaring its government never would accept the terms of the German-Russian accord reached in Moscow."

The ambassador said his government counted on France and Great Britain to prosecute the war against Germany until victory would bring the reconstitution of Poland.

Base Assured
Moscow—(P)—In a new treaty of friendship with Germany, signed early today, Soviet Russia promised economic support in war and at the same time committed herself to consult on joint "measures" with Germany unless Great Britain and France agree to peace.

Observers took the reference to "measures" as an implied threat of possible military aid against Germany's enemies in the west.

Shortly before the Russian-German treaty was signed, Russia announced conclusion of sweeping military and trade agreements with her little Baltic neighbor, Estonia, once part of the Russian empire.

Thus Russia gained a firm military and economic hold over the north Baltic and greatly increased her influence over the situation of the gulfs of Finland and the gulfs of Bothnia, vital commercially to Sweden and Finland.

Russia won the right to fortify two strategic Estonian islands—Saaremaa (Oesel) and Hiiuma (Dagoe)—and the mainland port of Paldiski as naval and air bases.

The ties with Estonia gave the U. S. S. R. the right to create naval and air bases and maintain a "limited number" of troops on Estonian territory, along with economic privileges which, it was estimated, would increase Russian-Estonian trade by four and one half times.

(It was reported in Riga, Latvia, that Russia gained concessions sufficient to garrison 25,000 soldiers on Estonian soil.)

Under this bargain with Estonia, Moscow and Tallinn pledged mutual aid in case of "direct aggression or menace of aggression arising on the part of any great European power" against the sea frontiers of Estonia, or through Latvia. The pact will run 10 years.

Britain Announces Aerial Attack Upon Nazis at Helgoland

London—(P)—The British government announced tonight that a royal air force unit had attacked the German fleet at Helgoland and some of the planes have not yet returned.

A communique of the ministry of information said:

"On Sept. 29 units of the royal air force carried out attacks on ships of the German fleet in Helgoland light."

"In spite of formidable anti-aircraft fire the attacks were pressed home at a low altitude. Some of our aircraft have not yet returned."

Berlin—(P)—The high command announced today that five of six British warplanes attempting to attack a German naval unit off Helgoland had been shot down by German pursuit planes.

The announcement said the British attack was fruitless.

Helgoland is Germany's island naval base in the North sea.

The communique said that when the six British planes, after assaulting the warships without success, flew away to the west German fighters attacked them.

"In a brief battle five of the British planes were shot down and plunged into the sea," the high command declared.

Neutrality Bill Permits Loans to Debt Defaulters

Would Modify Johnson Act to Allow 90-Day Credits to Belligerents

Washington—(P)—Chairman Pittman (D-Nev.) of the senate foreign relations committee said today the administration's neutrality bill would modify the Johnson act forbidding loans to nations in default on World war debts.

Senator Johnson (R-Calif.) promptly announced he would offer an amendment to the bill to prevent it from conflicting with the anti-loan act which he sponsored several years ago.

Pittman said he thought the Johnson act would be modified by a provision of the new bill permitting 90-day credits to belligerent governments.

"The Johnson act was passed in peace-time," Pittman said. "We are now facing a new condition in Europe."

He added that because Germany was not classed as a war-debt defaulter it could, so far as that act was concerned, borrow all the money American citizens were willing to lend. On the other hand, he said, Great Britain and France could obtain no advances unless the Johnson act was modified.

The committee chairman said he did not believe the senate would "wish to discriminate in favor of Germany against France and Great Britain."

Measure Criticized

Criticism of the administration neutrality bill came unexpectedly today from a few senators who have approved its basic principle—repeal of the arms embargo.

Sponsors of the measure were confident, however, that a majority of the senate favored it. They predicted passage would come within three weeks after the start of debate Monday.

The senate foreign relations committee approved finally today last-minute changes in the legislation.

The committee tightened up a provision which would have permitted American ships and planes to carry passengers and mail to belligerent ports in the western hemisphere by providing that only belligerent ports south of 30 degrees north latitude would be exempted. This latitude runs through New Orleans, and the exemption would thus not be exempt from the prohibition against transportation of American goods to belligerents on American ocean-going ships.

The legislation, which would wipe out the existing embargo on the sale of American armaments to belligerents, also was changed to permit American airplanes to land passengers and mail at all belligerent bases in the Pacific and the Atlantic.

The expanded provision makes it clear that American planes can land at Hong Kong.

Way Open to Canada

Surface vessels can not operate to belligerent ports in the Pacific under provisions of the new bill.

Under the bill, Americans can transport goods to Canada by lake routes and by rail.

The senate foreign relations committee approved the neutrality legislation, 18 to 7, yesterday.

Besides carrying out President Roosevelt's recommendation that belligerents be permitted to purchase arms, munitions and implements of war in the United States, major provisions of the bill would:

1. Limit credit to belligerent governments on all purchases in this country to 90 days. There would be no restriction on credits allowed to private citizens and companies of belligerent nations, but the munitions control board would advise congress every six months regarding the nature and extent of these.
2. Require belligerents to take title to all goods purchased in this country and carry them home in their own or other non-American ships.
3. Permit the president to designate "combat areas" in which American citizens and ships could not travel.
4. Require belligerents to take title to all goods purchased in this country and carry them home in their own or other non-American ships.
5. Permit the president to designate "combat areas" in which American citizens and ships could not travel.

Defense Plans Not Of Public Interest, Roosevelt's View

Says Nation Is Not in War And Will Not Go Into It

Washington—(P)—President Roosevelt told a press conference today that, since the United States was not in the war and was not going into it, he saw no public interest in this time in war and industrial mobilization plans being considered by various government and private boards.

Frequent attempts by reporters to get the chief executive to talk about these war policy and industrial preparedness plans evoked presidential reiteration that such reports were brought up to date from time to time and since this country was not a party and did not intend to become a party to the present conflict there was no reason to make public the reports.

The president said army and navy boards prepare defense plans every year.

From time to time, he added, special boards, such as the present war resources board, take up other phases that fit in with defense plans.

No Controversy

There was no controversy involved in any of them, he said.

Asked what the resources board would report on, he said the members had been studying the possibility of industrial expansion, location and stepping up of industry, relationship of transportation to industry, added power facilities, various forms of administrative handling, and the relationship of agriculture to industry.

Prices also had been investigated, he added, with the idea that cost of living was not to be increased and that prices were not going through the roof. Again and again he asserted such reports were based on the thought of America entering a war, but he emphasized that this government had no such thought.

The president said several days ago that the resources board, headed by Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., would make its report soon and then would be disbanded.

Asked today whether the board would be recalled in event of an emergency, the chief executive said he did not expect an emergency.

Plans Revised

Responding to further questions, Mr. Roosevelt said war mobilization plans had been changed from time to time since 1921 and the last he had seen was the 1938 plan.

Several times Mr. Roosevelt declined to comment on the neutrality bill reported out by the senate foreign relations committee yesterday, indicating he wanted to keep hands off and let congress work out the problem.

The chief executive reported there had been a number of reports recently of the presence of submarines of unknown nationality near American shores, but none had been verified.

Asked whether any tankers that might be supplying belligerent submarines had been noticed, he said he had no reports of tankers except one sighted by the American patrol off Cuba several days ago. This tanker was painted a war-gray, flew no flag, and had her name painted out, but after investigation was reported to be on a legitimate and peaceful voyage.

Label New Russo-German Pact As Ultimatum for Allies to Accept Nazi Terms or Else--

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE

New York—(P)—The new Russo-German pact is labeled by informed circles in Paris and London as an ultimatum to the Anglo-French allies to make peace on Hitler's terms or take the consequences.

It is backed by what is described as a "veiled threat" that if the allies don't acquiesce the soviet may throw its vast military machine into the war to support Germany against them.

The Hitlerian terms thus far indicated provide that the British and French, who have pledged themselves up to the hilt to restore Poland, must accept the Polish controversy as settled with the partition of that country between the communists and the nazis.

The allies also have pledged themselves to "crush Hitlerism," but the peace would liquidate that.

Puts Allies On Spot

The agreement places full responsibility for continuance of the conflict on allied shoulders. This paves the way for possible inauguration of the "complete war" about which Germany has been talking—that is, a war which would be without quarter or limitations if carried out to the extreme.

The question of just what part Russia might play if the allies refuse the peace (as they have said they will) is left purposely wholly unanswered. The document merely says Moscow and Berlin will "consult each other regarding necessary measures."

Observers generally don't believe Stalin has any present intention of entering a military alliance with Germany.

Strengthens Hitler

However, the phrasing of the pact is calculated to make Hitler's position as strong as possible in his effort to compel the allies to make peace.

There is no doubt that the "veiled threat" of Russian military intervention is the blunderbuss with which the allied stage-coach is to be held up.

One point which is of vital concern to the allies is finally cleared up. Russia agrees to supply Germany with materials on easy terms.

Expectations of this had led the nazis to boast that England cannot squeeze Germany into submission with the naval blockade. However that may be, access to soviet supplies certainly nullifies in some degree the effect of the blockade, and may protract the war indefinitely.

Simultaneously with the signing of the pact there was another sudden shift in balance of power which tipped the European political raft.

Estonia Gives In

Little Estonia finally acceded to soviet demands and agreed to allow her big neighbor to establish naval bases and airfields in Estonian territory. The small state thereby comes under control of Moscow.

This move puts Russia into position to become the overlord of the Baltic—a position which will make nazidom swallow hard.

These momentous overnight changes, and the other events which have happened in the first month of this strangest-of-all wars, have made it apparent that its ending will be wholly unlike the objectives which were in the minds of the original combatants on both sides when it started its sorry course.

Unforeseen Developments

All they can do is to hang onto the reins and be dragged willynilly into a maze of political and physical changes which they didn't foresee.

For there can be no question that Europe is being re-made, or more accurately, is continuing the process of evolution started by the World war.

As a matter of fact, the present conflict really is a continuation of the World war—interrupted by the Versailles armistice whose terms have been going through the mangle. Only now we have new factors—new isms with new ambitions—which complicate the show.

Whichever side wins—if it is humanly possible for anybody to win in a war like this—it will find a far different set-up in Europe to deal with.

Huss Will Face Trial on Oct. 23

First Degree Manslaughter Case Scheduled in Circuit Court

Trial of Arthur B. Huss, route 1, Kaukauna, will be held in circuit court Oct. 23 on a charge of first degree manslaughter in the deaths of two women who were struck by his truck at Freedom on the evening of April 30.

Victims of the accident were Mrs. John Garvey, route 2, Appleton, and Mrs. John G. Jensen, Little Chute.

The manslaughter charge was lodged against Huss after an inquest jury found he was unfit to drive his machine at the time of the accident because of the "alcoholic content in his system." The two victims were walking along the road with a third woman who was seriously hurt, when they were struck by Huss' truck.

Education Lacks Emotional Appeal To Young People

Wisconsin School Men Urged to Adopt Tactics Of Dictators

Madison—(P)—Edgar G. Doudna, Madison, secretary of the state board of normal school regents, suggested yesterday in a talk at the annual Wisconsin schoolmen's conference that United States schools should incorporate in their courses some of the emotionalism used on young people by European dictators.

"There is too much cold objectivity in our system of teaching," Doudna said. "We should have more study of history in terms of biographies of men like Washington and Lincoln to show how they differed from the Hitlers and Mussolinis of today."

John Callahan, state superintendent of public instruction, had challenged state educators earlier in the session to shoulder a major part of the responsibility for keeping democracy alive in this country. He ridiculed the assumption by some people that a totalitarian government was inevitable in the United States.

"If that happens and we get a dictatorship here, we as teachers must admit that our educational system has been one of the most colossal failures the world has ever seen," Callahan said.

Callahan spoke to about 400 city and county school superintendents, state and normal school principals, city grade school supervisors and high school principals at the opening general session. Doudna addressed a meeting of the county normal principals association.

Lacks Emotional Appeal

"We may as well recognize," Doudna said, "that the weakness of formal education here lies not only in methods of teaching, but in the lack of emotional appeal which has been used so successfully among young people by European dictators. You've got to have an emotional appeal for young people."

He said many Americans grow up to underrate freedom of speech, the right to vote and other privileges of a democracy.

Doudna asserted "the day of easy money for schools" was gone and added that increased competition for state funds from old age pension and relief groups had reduced school aids.

French advance guards were active in the sector west of Saarbruecken—apparently in the same zone where a small German attack was reported yesterday to have failed.

The German-Soviet Russian agreement on partition of Poland and the possibility of greater co-operation between Moscow and Berlin may decide the allies' future strategy.

Informed French circles said they expected a German "peace ultimatum" as the result of the agreement, behind which lay the shadow of the Russian military machine. The same circles made it clear they believed France and Britain would refuse any such offer.

Withdraws Complaint Against Kaukauna Man

Lawrence Burley, representing the unemployment compensation department of the state industrial commission, this morning withdrew a complaint against Jerome Hilgenberg, 232 Doty street, Kaukauna, charging false swearing.

The action opened before a jury in the municipal court of Judge Thomas H. Ryan this morning. Burley withdrew the complaint after testimony had been taken.

Accident Boards End National Convention

Milwaukee—(P)—William H. Nickels Jr. of Richmond, Va., was elected president of the International Association of Industrial Accident Boards and Commissions at the close of its four-day convention here yesterday.

Other officers named were C. K. Newcombe, Manitoba, Can., vice president; and Verne A. Zimmer, Washington, re-elected secretary treasurer.

12 U-BOATS SUNK

Paris—(P)—An official report that 12 German submarines had been sunk by the British and French fleets less than a month was disclosed today.

The president of the chamber of deputies naval commission, Jean Michel Renaitour, told the chamber last night that British units had sunk 10 U-boats and the French, 2.

Military observers said the rate of destruction was in excess of the rapidly with which Germany could replace submarines and train new personnel.

The official disclosure coincided with military reports that French bombing planes were carrying out missions of "capital importance" nightly against German military objectives.

The general staff reported today the night had been "calm" along the entire western front, but that

Little's Squad to Defend Championship in 1st Home Game

Kaukauna — The largest opening game attendance in years is expected here at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon as the 1939 edition of the Kaw Eleven takes the field. In two games away from home large crowds have followed the defending Northeastern conference champs, and two victories by decisive margins have whetted the already keen football interest here.

The Kaw Eleven has a score to settle with the Rockets from last season, when the invaders held Kaukauna to a 6-6 tie, the only conference team not to go down before the Littlemen. The Rockets dropped their opener, 15 to 7, to the heavy Messers High team of Milwaukee, but showed plenty in doing so.

Bob Danner, injured sophomore fullback who missed the Menasha game, completely after starting against St. Mary's, ran through plays last night and probably will see some action Saturday. Willis Rungtette, another ailing sophomore back who also missed last week's game, has come along well and will be available tomorrow. Ralph Deering, who took Danner's place against the Bluejays and played a steady game, will start against Neenah.

Works On Line

The squad went through another session, devoted mostly to scrimmaging, last night, with Little paying special attention to the work of the line. Starting Saturday will be Leo Rohan and Bill Alger, ends; John Velte and John Wandell, tackles; Leo Wolfe, center; Steve Andreski and Ray Hirst, guards; Joe Regan, quarterback; Carl Gloriana and George Steffen, halfbacks; and Ralph Deering, fullback.

Substitutes who will get first call will be Bob Wodjinski and John Kramer, ends; Herman Franz, Marvin Janssen, William Dryer and F. Schubert, guards and tackles; Rungtette, Danner, Phelan Fernal, Henry Ashe, Gene Kelly and John Reith, backs.

Large Number of People are Afraid Hitler Will Attack America if He Defeats England, France

BY DR. GEORGE GALLUP
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion
Princeton, N. J.—America's attitude toward the present war in Europe, as determined by an Institute survey of voters throughout the nation, is colored by a belief that Chancellor Hitler has far-flung ambitions of world power and that if England and France are defeated, the Germans would sooner or later begin military or naval operations against the United States.

Whether the fear of a German attempt to dominate the United States is justified, is a matter about which expert military observers disagree. But it is a fear held, nevertheless, by more than three-fifths of the voters reached in the Institute's national fact-finding survey. The results, which add to the general picture of American attitudes toward the war, may explain in part why the majority of voters in previous surveys have shown overwhelming sympathy for England and France in the present war.

The issue put to voters throughout the country was: "If Germany should defeat England, France and Poland in the present war, do you think Germany would start a war against the United States sooner or later?"

Yes ..... 63%
No ..... 37%

Only a small group of voters (7 per cent) had no opinion on the question. The events leading up to war and the actual outbreak of hostilities have had little or no effect on American opinion concerning this issue, for today's vote is nearly identical with the result of a survey conducted on the same question eight months ago, in February, 1939. At that time 62 per cent believed that Germany would open hostilities against the United States if England and France were defeated in a war.

Chancellor Hitler has, however, ridiculed the idea that Germany would attack the United States. In a speech before the Reichstag on January 30, 1939, he declared "the assertion that National Socialism in Germany will soon attack North or South America . . . is on the same plane as the statement that we intend to follow it up with an immediate occupation of the full moon." In another speech, three months later, he labeled assertions of an intended German attack on American territory as "rank frauds and gross untruths."

These denials have apparently had as little effect on American opinion as the Chancellor's promise last year that he had no more territorial ambitions in Europe. When America's attitude toward this statement was measured at the time, 92 per cent of voters with views on the question said they did not believe him. Today, as the current survey indicates, the majority of American voters apparently believe his ambitions are not even confined to Europe, but extend across the Atlantic as well.

World Ambition Is Feared
Some voters in today's poll argue,

What American People Think Of Herr Hitler's Promises

THE following is an interesting contrast between statements made by Chancellor Hitler in the past year and American public reaction to these statements as measured by Institute surveys.

Hitler Statement—Sept., 1938
The Sudetenland is "the last territorial demand I have to make in Europe."

Institute Survey—Oct., 1938
"Hitler says he has no further territorial ambitions in Europe. Do you believe him?"
Yes ..... 87%
No ..... 92%

Hitler Speech—Jan., 1939
"The assertion that National Socialism in Germany will soon attack North or South America . . . is on the same plane as the statement that we intend to follow it up with an immediate occupation of the full moon."

Institute Survey—Feb., 1939
"If Germany defeated England and France in a war, do you think Germany would then start a war against the United States?"
Yes ..... 62%

Hitler Speech—April, 1939
"I here solemnly declare that all the assertions which have been circulated in any way concerning an intended German attack or invasion on or in American territory are rank frauds and gross untruths."

Institute Survey—Sept., 1939
"If Germany should defeat England, France and Poland in the present war, do you think Germany would start a war against the United States sooner or later?"
Yes ..... 63%

however, that the United States, because of her size and geographical position, is immune to invasion and that even if Hitler did defeat England and France, Germany would be too exhausted to undertake a large-scale offensive across the Atlantic. Many military observers agree with this point of view.

The survey indicates, nonetheless, that the majority of voters have no such peace of mind. Their fears of invasion and of German world-rule, whether justified or not, must be taken into account as an important factor in public opinion on the war today. Even repeated German denials of intention to attack the United States have not decreased these fears.

A careful analysis of reasons given by voters in the survey shows that the great majority of those who think an invasion might come ascribe it to Hitler's personal ambition and "desire to rule the world." Only a small number think it would be because Germany desired America's resources.

On the other hand, the views of those who think Germany will not attack the United States fall into these categories in order of importance:

"America is too far away for invasion."
"Germany would be too exhausted to attack us."
"Hitler only wants Europe."

"Even if Germany were strong enough to attack us, Hitler would have his hands too full in Europe." The study reveals that voters in the lower income levels have a greater fear of invasion than persons in the upper levels. Thus, whereas 55 per cent of voters in the top income group ($40 a week and over) think Germany would invade the United States, as many as 68

A scavenger hunt by the students of the junior high school was held Thursday after school after per cent in the lower income group (below $20 a week) think this. In the middle income group ($20 to $40 a week), 63 per cent think an invasion is probable.

The greater fear in the lower income group may explain why, although a small minority of voters want to send American troops abroad, sentiment for such action is greater among the poor voters than among the more well-to-do.

Indiana Parties May be Divided On Candidates

Both Republicans, Democrats Expected to be Split at Parleys

BY W. B. RAGSDALE
Indianapolis—President Roosevelt may have trouble getting the Indiana delegation, in spite of the support of Paul V. McNutt, if he goes after a third term.

Most Democratic leaders say the delegation will trot along with McNutt, the state's platinum-haired former governor, so far as McNutt's own candidacy is concerned. And his campaign for the presidency is predicated on the idea that McNutt will support the president if Mr. Roosevelt chooses to run again. That applies to McNutt and the big men in his corner, however.

It is not binding upon Senator Van Nuys, the man whom the McNutts read out of the party in 1938 and then read back in again. Van Nuys has said he is opposed to a third term for any man. He will string along with McNutt for the presidency, but many of those who know the senator well think he will balk at any effort to turn the Indiana delegation to shouting for a third term. Some of them expect a split delegation in that event.

Claim Unity
Save for that possibility, the Indiana Democrats say they are united. They wore red and green feathers bearing the slogan "McNutt for president" at the annual meeting of Democratic editors at a French Lick resort.

They cheered for McNutt with his endorsement of the president's neutrality program; shouted again for Van Nuys' decision to support that program in the coming session of congress; clapped hands again for Governor Townsend, who did the reading when Van Nuys went out; and back in the party window last year; and beat palms for Senator Minton, who comes up for re-election next year.

More than one Democrat in Indiana says Minton probably will be re-nominated next year but with somewhat less enthusiasm than will be shown for the McNutt candidacy for president. They predict that the senator may have some slight trouble with the men who use a pencil on the ballots. They have not yet decided who will be the Democratic candidate for governor.

Clamor For Willis
The Republicans hear a clamor for Raymond E. Willis, the Angola publisher who ran against Van Nuys last year, to try again next year against Minton. Willis came within a few thousand votes of beating Van Nuys and there are still

LEAVES POSITION

N. A. Shauger, Black Creek, retires Saturday as mail carrier on route 3. He has been a rural mail carrier for 20 years and a substitute and temporary carrier for 8 years. He covered approximately 151,000 miles. For 5 years he used a team of horses during the winter months and for 15 years a snowmobile. During the last years the roads have been kept open all winter. He never walked.

Mr. Shauger has resided at Black Creek for 58 years and previous to that he had lived in the town of Cicero for 5 years.

men in Indiana willing to argue about the outcome of that race. Many small Republican newspapers are printing editorials urging that Willis be given a second chance. And Willis appears to be willing.

But the Indiana Republicans are split. A melting process which started when the veteran Senator Watson was lugged back in 1932 has not yet cooled enough to permit a cohesion of the molten masses. No new Republican leader strong enough to bring unity has developed. The old former senator, though now living in Washington and often threatening or promising to remove himself entirely from the Indiana picture still seems to take a hand now and then.

In the maneuverings for the delegation to the next Republican national convention Watson has said he was for Senator Taft of Ohio, partly because he was sold on the man and partly for sentimental reasons. Watson helped to nominate William Howard Taft, the senator's father, back in 1908.

Like Governor Better
But many Republicans in Indiana say they like the governor of Ohio better than they do that state's junior senator. Quite a few of them have been over to talk with Governor Bricker. The Republicans have an idea that Bricker has done a good job in Ohio.

Rally This Weekend
"Far worse than Mr. Watson's age and his office-holding record, however, are the record and the character of the organization machine which he controls in Indiana—the clique of men upon whom he primarily relies for assistance."

"The Watson machine" is notoriously the nucleus of the Republican share of the bi-partisan bossism which has plagued Indiana for six years."

A Republican rally at Indianapolis this weekend will veer toward the situation that has split the party. The chances are good, however, that the floor talks will not go into it. More than anything else, the speakers on the floor are likely to produce a discussion of how the Republicans view the neutrality problem.

Already the Republican candidates for 1940 have divided over that issue. Vandenberg is opposed to any change in the present act. Taft is willing to go along with the cash and carry changes proposed by Mr. Roosevelt. Neither Bricker nor Dewey has found it necessary to deal with that question yet.

But the fact that neutrality ideas promise to be the dominant subject at this meeting is, within itself, symbolic of the extent to which the European war already has taken over the stage on which will be produced the prologue for the 1940 presidential campaign.

Dr. Glenn Frank of Chicago, chairman of the Republican national program committee, will be one of the speakers. For more than a year Frank and a large committee from widely-scattered areas of the nation have been exchanging ideas and working toward the formulation of a Republican program which would be offered to their next national convention as a substitute for the things that have been enacted by the Democrats. They are still far away from agreement on an agricultural program.

Now, however, the national emphasis has veered away from domestic affairs toward which they were among their program. Business is picking up, due partly to the European war, partly to other things. Farm prices are rising. Around the northwestern Indiana steel towns signs such as have not been seen for years hang suspended.

in the lake breezes. They read: "Men wanted."

The backswing against the Democrats is threatening to go into reverse.

Consequently, in Indiana, as in Illinois, Wisconsin and Minnesota, the Republicans are beginning to try to reconcile their own views on foreign affairs. They have among them some of the most ardent isolationists the nation has ever produced. Senators Borah of Idaho and Johnson of California led the legion of death against Woodrow Wilson's league of nations 20 years ago. They have plenty of adherents. But there are other Republicans who lean toward the Roosevelt idea of a cash and carry neutrality.

This promises to overshadow Indiana disputes and thoughts of domestic policy when the Republicans meet Saturday at Indianapolis.

THE BILL OF RIGHTS HAS A BIRTHDAY

We are reminded that this week holds the anniversary of the submission by the first congress of the United States to the people of the Bill of Rights.

It is an auspicious time to consider that document and what, if anything, it continues to mean to us.

President Madison declared that the original adoption of the constitution stimulated hostility among many "because it did not contain effectual provisions against the encroachment of the particular rights of the individual and that the people were not only apprehensive of the future under such a constitution but might be jealous that certain safeguards should always be 'interposed between them and the magistrate who exercises the sovereign power.'"

Anyway, as if by unanimous consent, the Bill of Rights was written into the constitution as the first ten amendments to it. What do we think of it today with its guarantees practically abolished everywhere in the world excepting America?

Is human liberty a sign of progress or an indication of deterioration? Do we, with our Bill of Rights, exaggerate the importance of the individual? Would we have a greater nation and a better people had this document never been added to the constitution?

What benefit do we obtain by preventing our rulers from putting us in prison and denying us speedy trials if charged with crime? What is the advantage of a prohibition against excessive bail or a guarantee against cruel and unusual punishment? What is the privilege worth of worshiping as we like, thinking as we like, speaking our thoughts freely, openly, meeting under the protection of the law when we think we have grievances in order to publicize and present them? Is it a valuable right to know that our house is our castle and may not be invaded even by the uniform without the approval of a judge as made evident by the issuance of a warrant? And then, besides, soldiers cannot be quartered upon us without our consent. How the colonists fumed and raged at the insufferable indignities visited upon them by the right of a royal governor to make them support the army in such manner!

No answer is needed to any of the questions suggested above. We are committed to the rigid proposition that progress cannot be found except as it goes hand in hand with human liberty, and that the dignity of the individual, however lowly in the social scale or humble in the way of worldly goods, is a matter always of the highest importance.

And so we will go our course as a nation clinging tenaciously to our Bill of Rights, thankful that our forefathers insisted upon it, appreciative of the fact that they were cool and cautious men who seemed never to forget the lessons of experience and who knew full well that a concentration of power is a negation of safety and happiness.

A WAGNER EXPERT SPEAKS OF THE LAW

It is no longer necessary to quote anyone in criticism of the Wagner law other than its warm and avowed friends.

Dr. Leiserson, the new member of the National Labor Relations Board, appointed after congress arched its back at the radical stuff, has publicly and in writing declared that former rulings of the board have effectively undermined the very purpose of the law itself and made chafes out of the workers who were ruled against in favor of the big, bushy eyed czars.

In a case affecting the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company, where the board favored the CIO in giving it bargaining power over a plant despite the majority vote in that plant against it, Commissioner Leiserson declared that such a ruling is "not essentially different from the denial of free choice of representatives in cases where employers impose labor organizations upon their employees," and that the hundreds working for the glass company were thus effectively denied "any opportunity to express their own free choice as to representation."

Between Czar John L. Lewis, Alien Bridges, Tom Mooney, a recognized authority on explosives, and others, on the one hand, and hard bitten employers executing fast foot work to avoid the law, on the other, the American worker has shown that he is not only a pretty tough hombre but as patient as they make them, to tolerate the abuse and the misuse to which he has been subjected under the delightful promise of "bettering his condition."

THE LAUREL WREATH FOR SHAWANO

It is going to be difficult to live alongside Shawano County now that it is so far in advance with its Fish Pond in the race for the Grand Giddy Prize in this age of matchless follies.

Brown County made a flash across the sky for a while. But its Home for Aged Canines, albeit good enough for any Yugoslavian baron's residence, looks so puny alongside Shawano's titanic and exquisite achievement that Brown would do well to just withdraw its entry.

The Fish Pond is like one of those Kentucky thoroughbreds, it has everything. Putting $100,000 into something of this kind is the right start. It shows a magnificent ambition and that there are no pikers in Shawano. And from that very start the project has been showing its heels to the county.

Every step it took had a hole in it. It didn't even get clear title to its land. And it ended up by suffocating its fish. Heralded as a venture to maintain life and produce food it bringeth death and produceth fertilizer. Baptized as a "Fish Pond" the court should now step in and by selecting an appropriate fish, identify it properly as Sucker Mausoleum or something else as grand and inspiring.

Shawano's entry has not only run the course in elegant style but comes down the home stretch showing that final qualification which proves patrician class beyond a doubt—no one wants it and it cannot be given away.

But Mr. Meisner's comment was appropriate. He deplored the fact that this project was made "a punching bag" when so many other projects knew nothing but high mismanagement. What we are going to need in this country is a law prohibiting an investigation into any more of the follies. When a man looks into a few of them he starts laughing but laughter gives one a pain after it becomes semi-permanent.

And let no one complain about his taxes, now or hereafter. These jobs must somehow be paid for. And haven't we had heaps of fun?

The mean may refer to our day as the Foolish Era but Gorgeous Nonsense is a kinder expression and covers it as well.

HOLDING OFF THE MOB

They are having a hard time restraining themselves down in Florida because of that particularly vicious fellow who kidnaped two young girls upon the pretense of training them for the cinema and then so callously slew one of them.

People cannot be blamed for feeling that permitting such a man to live is inviting atmospheric poisoning. And after he confessed it took discipline not to visit upon him immediately the death penalty which is his due under the Florida law.

When an unusually depraved crime is committed and some brutal wastrel who has done nothing all his life but cheat and defraud is known to be guilty it is simple enough to talk about a fair trial and the sane hearing that civilization demands but it must not be forgotten, in mitigation of the public offense of lynching in such cases, that it is as natural for the people to become furious as it is for the accused to whine as he pleads for mercy or submits some slinking and ragged defense.

But a curb by the public upon itself is indispensable. And after the law has vindicated itself, as is usually the case, and the accused has been duly executed there comes a public satisfaction at the evidenced control and constraint that is compensation for waiting.

When men plead with a mob not to take the law into their own hands they are not pleading for the wretch at bay. They are pleading for the great number of innocent people, alone and friendless, who might mistakenly or by reason of false and intentionally vicious charges be put in such a position themselves.

A Verse for Today

THE GULL

Framed in the cabin window I can see
The whitecaps beating on the rain-drenched shore,
And one gull struggling in immensity
He rides lightly upon the floor
Of water tumbling at our cabin door.

So I shall breast the stormy seas of Fate,
Trusting in the deep surging of the Tide,
Knowing the sunlight trembles while I wait
Only a little way from Heaven's gate,
And Joy is seeking me as out I ride.

Maps, key to all successful military operations, were transmitted by wire to field troops for the first time in history at the recent Plattsburg, N. Y. maneuvers of the U. S. army. Using standard teletype machines, commanders scouting "enemy" positions were able to wire maps covering their exact tactical situation within seven minutes.

Many Americans, at the time of the opening of the Panama canal, were opposed to fortifying this "Canal of All Nations." It was to be a symbol of international progress and good will. Now, under congressional mandate, the canal is being made "impregnable from attack by sea, land, or air."

Louisville, Ky.—(P)—The motion picture public need not expect a flood of war movies while the fighting is going on in Europe, Jesse L. Lasky says.

"A few war pictures are inevitable," the veteran producer says, "but there will not be many—not until the war is over. Then the public can expect a cycle of war films."

DALE HARRISON'S In Old New York

New York—If you are a zealot in the cause of free speech, you can strike a blow in favor of untrammelled tongues by writing a sharp note to General Phelan, chairman of the New York State Athletic Commission.

The General, whose own speech is as free on occasion as the birds, has lately ordered Harry Balogh, the fast-becoming-famous announcer at New York fight arenas, to put a damper on his declamation, to subdue his flare for words, to reduce his announcements to an absolute minimum of words.

Those of us who have come to love Mr. Balogh's delightful journeys into poesy's pastures, resent the Commission's muzzling. Nine times out of ten Mr. Balogh's announcements have been much more entertaining than the fights that followed them. This is not saying very much, but it is saying something.

Harry Balogh became official fight announcer in the wake of the fondly remembered Joe Humphries whose flare was more for noise than nuances. Joe was the Common Peepul's announcer. He spoke a broken Brooklynese—"thoid," "foist" and "G'emun," the latter standing, I always assumed, for "Gentlemen." Joe attained such distinction, in fact, that he came at last to realize he was the World's Greatest Announcer. In Joe's days the public address system was in its infancy. An announcer required lungs. An announcer had to Give Out. In a single brief evening an announcer's vocal cords took an awful beating.

When Joe Humphries died it seemed the end of an era, as indeed it was; but there was a new era coming up, and Harry Balogh was its prophet. Harry brought to fight announcing a quality which Joe, fine fellow that he was, lacked. That quality was Class. Harry excelled Class. It was he, I believe, who first introduced the dinner jacket to the Madison Square Garden fight arena. There is a word for it, and I think the word is impeccable.

Harry also has grace and poise. When he climbs through the ropes he does so with dignity. His greatest talent, however, is Words, and now these wings on which he soared to adjectival heights have been clipped by an unappreciative Commission.

Mr. Balogh avoids the linguistic pitfalls that were forever in his predecessor's path. He says "first" and "third," and the r's sound clearly. Sometimes it is true, he surprises his public by hurling at them a word which isn't in any dictionary including the Scandinavian. At the first Louis-Schmeling fight, for instance, he made a plea for the crowd to be sportsmanlike and to avoid "prejudism." Chided about it afterward, Mr. Balogh said: "No such word? Well, there ought to be. It's a honey." And to think that the Commission would muzzle a lingual adventurer like that!

Harry's only fault, as Dan Parker the sports writer once pointed out, was a tendency "to sound the second G in Long Gyland." Someone told him about it, however, and he has been saying "Long Island" ever since.

To give you an idea of Harry's oral opulence, there was his opening speech which he used at all fights: "Good Evening, Ladies and Gentlemen—and may your evening be a pleasant one. This salutation, I have always felt, is much better than no salutation at all."

Hereafter, unless the Commission reverses itself, Mr. Balogh must avoid all such excess verbiage. He will be forbidden, as I understand it, to say: "x x that mighty atom, the Herkimer Buzzard, the one and only Lou Ambers." He must confine himself merely to Lou Ambers. In other words, the Commission has told him to Please Omit Flowers.

One of the rising personalities of the New York sports world is well on the way to having his vocabulary edited down to a mere nothing unless the Lightning of Better Judgment strikes the Commissioners. The Commissioners, incidentally, are earbenders of a high order. They talk without stint; one might almost say without—oh, well, let it go at that. When I was a wandering reporter I used to drop into the Commission meetings just for laughs. I guess Walt Disney's Three Little Pigs were funnier, but they were in technical violation.

Anyway, I thought you ought to know that Free Speech is just a trade name and purely academic now, as far as Harry Balogh is concerned; and what a pity, I'll always say.

George A. Schmidt was elected grand knight at a meeting of the Knight of Columbus the previous evening. Other officers named were William Fountain, deputy grand knight; Frank C. Kornel, trustee; Dan Morrissey, inside guard; Joseph Van Handle, outside guard.

General von Hindenburg had been appointed to take command of the defense of Cracow Austria. Terrific firing continued incessantly near Rove where the Germans were strongly reinforced, according to a Paris dispatch. The battle front extended into the region south of Arras. The Germans attempted to throw up a bridge across the Meuse near St. Mihiel but it was destroyed.

Stock prices declined drastically under a flood of selling on the New York Stock exchange that day. About a score of issues suffered extreme losses of $8 to $35 a share.

A paid attendance of 43,879 fight fans saw Jack Sharkey stop Tompp Loughran at the Yankee stadium in New York the previous night.

The new clubhouse and boat storage quarters of the Appleton Yacht club on S. Pierce avenue was rapidly nearing completion and it was expected they would be ready for occupancy by the following week.

Dr. C. E. Ryan was elected faithful navigator of the Allouez assembly, Fourth degree Knights of Columbus, Thursday night at the Catholic home. Other officers elected were H. Schmalz, faithful captain; Edgar Schommer, faithful admiral; Harry Recker, faithful controller, and John W. Power, faithful pilot.

Wisconsin has 23 institutions for the treatment of the tubercular maintained by the state and the counties. There are now almost 150 summer camps for children scattered throughout the state.

Only 33 cases of infantile paralysis were reported in Wisconsin last year, making the lowest total in eight years. Deaths from this cause were limited to five last year, and state records show no toll lower than this one.

Certain preventable diseases, says the state board of health, are becoming so rare in Wisconsin that some young physicians have practiced for years without gaining first hand observation of typhoid fever, diphtheria, and small pox.

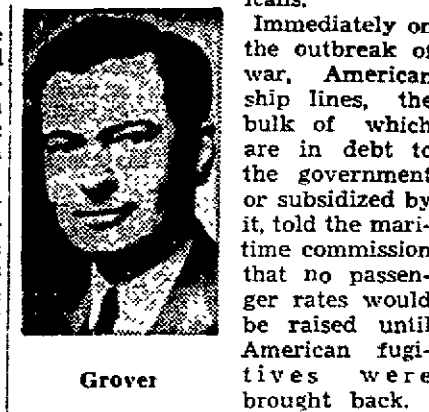

On the basis of provisional statistics released by the federal census bureau, Wisconsin in 1938 had the lowest typhoid death rate in the nation.

October 13, 1914: The seat of the Belgian government is removed from Ostend to Havre, France. The British cruiser Hawke is sunk by a German submarine in the North sea.

A Bystander In Washington

BY PRESTON GROVER

Washington — Yankee ship lines stopped foreign ships from raising prices for returning frantic Americans.

Grover

There was considerable growling among foreign lines. An American stranded on a war-ridden shore is fair game for whatever foreigners can shake out of him.

During the World war, returning Yankees had little recourse. There weren't enough American boats. Now there are. It has been an expensive job to build up the American merchant marine but it seems now to warrant the trouble it took.

Since the shipping subsidization program was given new life about three years ago, 108 passenger and cargo vessels have been ordered. Of these, 19 have been launched. Others are far along in the building.

On completion, they will add more than a million tons to U. S. tonnage. That will double our present deep-sea tonnage. The 18 major lines now subsidized by the government operate 148 vessels of 1,028,000 tons total.

New, Large Tankers
Of course that isn't all to which the U. S. would have access in time of war. U. S. deep-sea tonnage is only a minor fraction of the vast coast-wise tonnage, part of which is fully capable of diversion to deep-sea transportation.

In addition to the ships already ordered, bids were opened by the maritime commission late in September on an additional 34 vessels including 12 "national defense" tankers. These are tankers capable of accompanying the fleet in action but serviceable in peacetime commerce.

These tankers are of 16,800 horsepower compared to about 4,000 horsepower for the ordinary tanker. Their capacity is 150,000 barrels, about double ordinary, and their speed is 20 knots, which again is almost double that of rank-and-file oil carriers.

By agreement the cost of extra speed facilities run inplacements, and other essential navy features are paid for by the government. Oil companies pay the balance of the cost of the ships.

The government owns outright about 40 commercial vessels now at sea and has an additional 119 collecting barnacles in various out-of-the-way estuaries. They are for-lorn babies of the last war.

Narrow Lanes
As this is written two government-owned vessels, leased to private concerns, are in the Baltic sea. Others pass in and out from time to time with permitted cargoes. We are informed at the maritime commission that none touch at German ports.

They carry on under exciting circumstances. Entering the Baltic they pass in the vicinity of the British home fleet stationed in the North sea south of Norway. A British pilot steers them through secret courses among the British mine fields laid to block ships.

They have a strip of free passage until they reach the German mine fields in the narrow sea-passages between Denmark and Sweden. Then German pilots navigate them through secret clear channels.

They have equally exciting trips through the English channel, where British pilots must steer them. As they round the shores of Holland mines really get tough. The British have laid mines to keep German submarines from getting out by way of the Kiel canal. Neither ship is the German mine field laid to protect important Nazi strongholds. The two mine fields actually overlap.

Just a Step Behind the News

By Dave Boone

I'm making a prediction, not having any more sense than to do it. There'll be peace or an armistice before long over in Europe. Hitler's getting himself into a tie-up with Stalin which will give him enough trouble to keep him from being a serious threat to anybody else. It would be a shame to plunge all Europe and maybe most of the world into a war, in view of the change in the set-up, to my way of thinking.

The allies would be denounced as turncoats and they'd look pretty wormlike at first, but even if they'd have to fight Hitler ultimately, a delay would do 'em more good than to solidify such talk.

Another indication was the recent lobbying efforts by Ed Curry, Democratic boss, in favor of the bill which would probably force the Progressives to leave their own party ticket for another—if it is passed. Curry spent several days in Madison this week working for the single ballot bill, which would be a terrific handicap for the Progressive ticket next year.

Curry and Keller were the two principal movers in the New Deal Democratic reorganization project which started in Wisconsin several months ago.

BUT DON'T GO NEAR THE WATER

Under the CAPITOL DOME

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Madison—Republicans have continued to toy during the last few weeks with the idea of amending the state civil service law, but at the beginning of this week it was definitely established that they rejected suggestions to that direction.

It hasn't been shown to the public but one of the routine subjects of conversation in party meetings and legislative caucuses over a period of many months has been the question of making room for deserving party workers on the capitol payroll.

As recently as two weeks ago Governor Heil appeared before the Republican legislators at their evening caucus and told them that he wished he could do something for their constituents, but that the civil service statute was an obstacle too formidable to overcome.

As has been mentioned here before, the civil service statute is practically air-tight in protecting employees in their jobs. The only loop-hole which admits of reasons of economy. And, of course, such action doesn't satisfy those party men who expect to replace workers now in the state's employ.

Significantly, Attorney General John E. Martin the other day rather bluntly reminded the governor of the contents of the civil service law when he interpreted it to mean that employees could be fired for reasons of economy, but that such an excuse cannot be used to veil other motives, such as political reward for substitute workers.

MILWAUKEE SITUATION

Those who know the Milwaukee political situation, and particularly the doings in city hall, report that although he has returned to his desk, the health of the metropolitan veteran and picturesque mayor, Daniel W. Hoan, is not good, and that he may not run for reelection in spring.

That is probably the reason, city ELP men report, that District Attorney Steffen changed his address from the suburbs to the city proper recently.

Earlier, after one of his court triumphs, Steffen's friends had started a boom for him for the governorship on the Progressive ticket. Now reports say that he would be content to trade his $8,500 assignment as prosecutor of the state's biggest county for the $12,000 job of running the state's biggest city.

MR. CURRY LOBBIES

There has been much said in recent months about the supposed movement for an alliance between the New Deal Democrats of Wisconsin and the Progressives, with one of the principal objectives of returning Senator LaFollette to Washington next year. The invitation by Gustave Keller of Appleton to LaFollette recently for a place on the Democratic ticket did much to solidify such talk.

Another indication was the recent lobbying efforts by Ed Curry, Democratic boss, in favor of the bill which would probably force the Progressives to leave their own party ticket for another—if it is passed. Curry spent several days in Madison this week working for the single ballot bill, which would be a terrific handicap for the Progressive ticket next year.

Personal Health Talks

HOW MANY GLASSES OF WATER A DAY?

Question frequently asked is whether it is necessary that every one should drink at least eight glasses of water a day in order to keep well. For example one correspondent says: "I have tried it faithfully several times—forcing down five or six glasses of water a day, altho I was not at all thirsty, and water seemed repugnant. Felt no better for it and it made not a particle of difference with bowel function which has always been rather sluggish. Ordinarily I have no thirst, except after eating sweets or taking strenuous exercise. But if you say it is necessary I'll try to keep it up."

Unless I were farther off my nut than I seem to myself at present, and had to mind what my keeper told me, I'd drink no water at all unless I were thirsty, at any time. It makes no difference whether one takes water straight or as a constituent of any and all foods—for there is more or less water in practically everything on the menu. Of course more water in, say, melon or tomato or potato or oysters or cabbage contains more water than wheat, cheese, meat, egg or figs or raisins.

Not only the character of the diet but also the weather, season, climate, relative humidity of the air, and the physical activity of the individual all have an influence on the body's need of water. Not only eating sweets but eating any carbohydrate sugar (or starch) to excess increases the demand for water. Likewise eating much salt increases the demand for water.

Habitual consumption of too much carbohydrate or too much salt not only increases thirst or the need for more water but tends to retain more water in blood and tissues, keep the body waterlogged, so to speak, dull, sluggish, easily tired, low in health or vice.

A person exposed to extreme heat, natural or artificial, should make it a rule to take a good nip of common salt, perhaps ten grains, with each drink of water or other beverage. This will be more refreshing than pure water, it will tend to prevent heat cramps or colic, ease frayed heat prostration, by retaining more water in the tissues, preventing dehydration which occurs from excessive sweating under such circumstances. In very dry air one may not realize that an enormous quantity of water is being lost thru sweating, because the water evaporates so quickly—but nevertheless the body temperature is being controlled, overheating prevented, by the cooling effect of evaporation of water from the skin, as well as the water evaporated from the lungs.

The rule that every one should drink so many glasses of water a day is a silly one, probably conceived by some glib charlatan who fancied himself as a natural-born health specialist. Most of the notions about diet which the unsophisticated layman cherishes appear to be of similar origin. There is just one rule that a sensible person need follow, and that is simple: Drink when you are thirsty. Don't worry about getting enough water—you'll get enough as long as you get enough to eat.

Company D Adds 6 New Members; 5 More Openings

National Guard Unit Is Being Increased From 67 to 78 Men

Six new men have been added to Company D of the 127th infantry, Wisconsin National Guard, under the orders that allow expansion of the unit from 67 to 78 men, Captain H. J. Piette, commanding officer, reported today.

The new men are Carl DeBruin and Robert Thiele, Kaukauna; Robert Calmes, James Schreier, Albert Baer, and Roland Hanson, Appleton. Because promotion depends entirely on individual effort, the new men have the same opportunity as older members of the company, Captain Piette pointed out.

Recruits are given full equipment by the United States government and paid for each drill attended. Drills are held from 8 o'clock to 9:30 Monday evenings.

The primary weapon of the unit is the machine gun 10 of which are among the company's equipment. Each man is equipped with a Colt .45 automatic pistol and full training is given in the use of this weapon.

Other subjects taught include military courtesy and discipline, defense against chemical warfare, close order and extended order drill, anti-aircraft marksmanship, use of machine gun instruments, first aid, and other subjects.

In order to be admitted to the company, a man must be 18 years of age, unmarried, and able to pass the standard physical examination.

Camp Experience

"Men enlisting at this time not only acquire a knowledge of infantry weapons but get the benefit of actual army experience during the two weeks each year the company is in army camp," Captain Piette said today.

He described plans for 1940 that call for bringing together of all middle west national guard units at a Kentucky camp, about 40,000 troops in all. All expenses, including uniforms and transportation, are paid through the annual army appropriations.

In enlisting in the Appleton company, men are assured of belonging to one of the highest rated units in the Wisconsin National Guard, Captain Piette said. The 127th infantry regiment received the highest rating given by regular army umpires in the 1936 Michigan maneuvers.

There are five openings left in the company, Captain Piette said. The recruiting offices at the armory will be open tonight and Monday evenings.

Men who feel they cannot enlist but still would like the advantage of army experience can receive it through special instructors, Captain Piette said today. The men will not receive pay, but will be given a thorough training.

All-Night Parking on Boulevards Prohibited

Police Chief George T. Prim today called attention of motorists to an amendment to the city parking law which prohibits the parking of vehicles on any boulevard in the city from 1 to 5 o'clock in the morning. The boulevard is the space between the street curbing and the sidewalk, or between the travelled portion of any street and the private property line in the event a sidewalk is not in place.

A number of motorists are in the habit of parking their cars on this area and unless the practice is stopped, arrests will be made, Chief Prim warned.

Warns Motorists To Exercise Care In Night Driving

A warning to motorists and truckers to use caution when driving at night was issued today by Captain Charles Steidl of the county traffic squad.

Farmers hauling cabbage should carry lanterns as soon as dusk arrives, Captain Steidl said. Any piece of equipment attached to a car for hauling purposes is classified as a trailer, and when the entire weight is over 2,500 pounds a license is required, he advised.

Truckers hauling with a weight of five tons or more should not travel over 35 miles per hour at any time, the captain said. Many fall nights bring fog that leaves roads in a slippery condition, and truckers and motorists should use extra caution to drive safely to prevent accidents, Steidl stated.

Serving of Food Will Be Studied in Class

A course to demonstrate the serving of food in the home will be offered in the home-making division of the Appleton Vocational school this fall.

The class, which will start the week of Oct. 8, will illustrate the different types of meals served by members of the family, by a maid, and by two maids.

Because no food is prepared in the course, none other than the regular registration fee is charged. It is aimed to help women interested in the serving of food as an occupation.

President Names Gordon Clapp as Manager of TVA

Lawrence Graduate Elevated From Post as Personnel Director

Gordon C. Clapp, 34, Lawrence graduate and a former assistant to the dean at the college, has been named general manager of the Tennessee Valley Authority.

The appointment was made by President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Clapp was elevated from his post as personnel director of the gigantic federal power project, which is situated near Knoxville, Tenn.

A 1927 graduate of Lawrence college, Clapp served as student secretary and assistant to the dean for five years. He then went to the University of Chicago where he took graduate study in personnel work for a year and a half.

When Professor Floyd Reeves of the University of Chicago went to the TVA as personnel director in 1933, he took Clapp with him as an assistant. When Professor Reeves returned to teaching, Clapp succeeded him.

Mr. and Mrs. Clapp live at Norris, Tenn. They have two children. The new TVA manager was a member of Delta Iota fraternity, now Delta Tau Delta, while at Lawrence college.

A brother, Norman Clapp, is one of Senator LaFollette's secretaries.

Response of Three Clubs Was Correct

"I sat South and dealt. When I picked up my hand I had bridge sense enough to know that there ought to be a slam in it if my partner had anything. My opening bid was two diamonds, and partner responded with three clubs. By ways that were as dark and mysterious as those of the proverbial Chinaman, we finally reached seven no trump but I knew that we did not get there in the right way. The two hands are obviously a laydown in either seven no trump or seven diamonds, but it seems to me that the latter really is the logical contract, inasmuch as there is a singleton in each hand. Of course my partner and I were very well satisfied with the result and did not fussing, but I claim that she should have bid four clubs on the first round, which would have shown me that we had virtually all of the honors in the two hands. Will you kindly give us the correct bidding throughout? W. H. W., Alabama."

My correspondent is in error in thinking that a jump take-out of an opening two bids shows greater general honor strength than a non-jump take-out. In this case, holding a semi-two-suit and unbalanced distribution, South was entitled to correct to respond, with only three clubs on the first round. A four club bid would not be justified on any hand except one that contained an extremely long and powerful club suit and nothing else. As a matter of fact, not once in a thousand times is there any justification for a jump take-out of an opening two bid. In my opinion the correct bidding throughout would have been:

South West North East
3 diamonds Pass 3 clubs Pass
3 hearts Pass 3 spades Pass
4 no trump Pass 6 clubs Pass
4 spades Pass 6 no trump Pass
5 no trump Pass Pass

My correspondent is wrong in the opinion that seven diamonds would have been a better contract. I realize that most players feel safer in bidding their slams at trump declarations, but there is not always logic behind this feeling. In a case such as this seven diamonds would be a distinctly inferior contract, inasmuch as it would depend entirely on dropping the diamond jack, whereas at no trump thirteen tricks might well be made even if the diamond suit did not break. North-South had three sure tricks in spades, three in hearts, three in diamonds, and three in clubs. At no trump this eleven trick total might be supplemented by an extra trick in spades and hearts through dropping the jacks, or, if only one of these suits could be brought home solidly, through an extra trick in the club finesse. If five diamond tricks came home they would be just as valuable at no trump as at diamonds, since in that case the declarer would not have to get a break in any other suit. Thus, under no circumstances could seven diamonds be made unless seven no trump also were cold, and by that measure, the contract actually reached was eminently correct.

Too many of us make the mistake of wanting seedlings seven or eight inches tall before we think about transplanting them. For the good of the plant it is advised that the seedlings be transplanted as soon as they can be handled without actually crushing the tender stems. The beds into which they are to be transplanted, or their permanent places in the border, should be well prepared. It is well to keep in mind that these seedlings are now going into their permanent home where it will be difficult to make soil corrections once they have become established. Therefore, it becomes part of our job to

SIMPLE SUPPER MENU

When one gets home from work, from a shopping expedition, or from a bridge party one doesn't feel like making elaborate preparations for supper. Yet one must eat, and to be happy about it, must eat a full meal and a well cooked one.

You'll be looking for short cuts and simplicity in meal preparation. I believe that this menu has both essentials. There is not much to preparing and cooking the meat, and it's inexpensive too. The vegetable casserole may be prepared in a jiffy and the salad could be scarcely an easier one. The dessert, a delicious pudding is easy to make and is baked in the oven with the scalloped tomatoes.

CASE RECORDS OF A PSYCHOLOGIST

By Dr. George W. Crane

Psychologist, Northwestern University

There are two distinct types of criminal. One type often warrants parole and some judicial leniency, whereas the other should rarely be released into society. Since much criminality begins at the high chair stage, the parents of criminals often deserve to be punished, too. Their errors of omission or commission pave his road to the electric chair.

CASE O-159: Henry R., aged 20, is an habitual criminal.

"He was sentenced to life in the penitentiary today," the assistant state's attorney commented, "under our habitual criminal act, for a few weeks ago he was again guilty of robbery with a gun."

"At the age of 13 years he was sent to an industrial school, and at 15 he was held to the grand jury on charges of robbery with a gun. A few months later he was sentenced for a term of one year to life."

"But after 3 years, he was paroled. He again started his criminal career, and is now back in prison on a life term. Dr. Crane, why won't these crooks realize the folly of trying to buck the law? They always get the worst of it in the long run."

DIAGNOSIS:

There are two general classes of criminals. First, we have the habit criminal, like Henry. Again, we occasionally meet the man who has committed a crime of passion.

A man of good home background and intelligence may unexpectedly find his wife in the arms of another man, and become so emotionally upset that he strikes out at the intruder by fist or bullet. If he kills the other man, he will be arraigned in court.

In such cases the juries are usually very lenient. The man's past virtuous life and the extenuating circumstances make the crime of passion a matter for careful analysis and often judicial clemency.

But the fellow who starts out in childhood stealing pennies from his mother's purse, or who filches newspapers from the honor stands, or gloats in purloining apples from the fruit vendor's tray, is the dangerous man in society.

Criminality Is A Habit

A man with 20 or 30 years of criminal behavior and anti-social thinking behind him is very difficult to change. It is possible, of course, but highly improbable.

Criminality is an entrenched system of habits which may be likened in some respects to musical ability. If a man has patiently practiced the piano or violin day after day for 20 years, it would be folly to assume that he could eliminate such habits immediately by tearfully expressing a desire to do so before a judge or jury.

A democrat or republican cannot suddenly change his lifetime attitudes which have been planted and nurtured for decades. It is time we learned that full blown criminals in most cases will remain that way as long as they live.

One of our leading Chicago psychiatrists remarked a few years ago that every recidivist, or repeater

Parents Usually to Blame For Child's Shortcomings

BY DOROTHY DIX

I could almost start another Atlantic ocean with the tears that are shed on my shoulder by mothers bemoaning the way their children treat them. But, curiously enough, seldom do these mothers who are slopping over with pity for themselves bring any concrete charge of misconduct against their sons and daughters. John hasn't enjoy being with them, instead of coming to see them, because it is an attention that they owe Mother. And especially does Mother desire to feel that her children yearn to have her come and live with them, instead of looking upon it as an affliction that only the grace of God can help them endure.

One of these mothers puts the case of what she calls the "neglected mother" to me in this way. She says:

"Almost every mother knows how true is the saying that when your children are little they trample on your feet, but when they are grown they tread on your heart. We give all we have to our children. We risk our lives to bring them into the world. We are slaves to them in their infancy. We toil and deny ourselves to educate them. Then as soon as they are grown they leave us, and they think they have fulfilled their obligations to us when they support us, if we need it, and pay us duty visits."

"That is the way my children treat me, and they are no worse than other women's children. They never show me any real affection. They never tell me that they love me, or that they appreciate all that I have done for them. They never tell me of their hopes and plans, or make me feel that I am necessary to them in any way, or even contribute to their happiness. They send me boxes of fine candy when I am starving for love; for costs when all I need to keep me warm is just the sense of being close to them; mail me letters dictated to their stenographers that have nothing more to do with me or them than a sales report."

"It makes me feel that to my children I am just an old woman to whom they owe a debt that they are trying to pay with duty observations, when the only thing that I want them to do for me is just to love me. I don't want a box of orchids on Mothers Day. I just want a few forget-me-nots every day."

Hence these tears, and heaven knows I can weep in sympathy with these mothers whose children get so absorbed in their own lives that they forget even the mothers who bore them. But I think that when this is the case it is often the mother's fault than it is the children's. For it is sadly true that for a mother just to love her children isn't enough. She has to tell herself to them if she gets their devotion in return. There are plenty of mothers who would die for their children who are so disagreeable to live with that their children's only thought is to get away from them as soon as possible.

Being human, how can children enjoy being with a mother who is always whining and complaining and who is so steeped in gloom that she is about as cheerful as a funeral? How can they be affectionate with a mother who nags them about everything they do; who spies on them; who opens their letters and reads them before they see them; who listens in on every telephone conversation, and who objects to everything they do or leave undone? How can they feel any affection for a mother who is a grinding tyrant and who never permits them a particle of personal liberty even after they are grown?

That mothers bring their misfortunes on their own heads is amply proved by the fact that all of us know mothers who are little queens in their own homes, whose children adore them, and who are the most cherished guests that ever come into their children's homes. So perhaps Mother gets what is coming to her, after all.

Should Woman Marry Third Time?

Dear Dorothy Dix—I have been married twice, but am now alone and am in business for myself. I have always wanted a home and all that goes with it so much, but somehow my efforts to have one have failed. Husband No. 1 was criminal, should be electrocuted, even if his crimes had been only those of the pickpocket.

Wise Use Of Parole
"Maybe we'd injure one man in 100 by so doing," said this famous doctor, "but the others who are paroled into society would meanwhile be killing scores of innocent citizens in their repetition of their criminal habit patterns."

"Which is sounder common sense? To parole habit criminals and let them murder scores of innocents, or electrocute all the repeaters and kill one man in the lot who might become an honest citizen?"

The chief place to check crime is in childhood. Criminals are often well launched on their dangerous careers even before they enter kindergarten, so we must get to the parents.

As a rule, when a criminal is locked up in jail his parents deserve punishment, too, for their errors of omission or commission in his babyhood and adolescence are largely responsible for his later stealing or killing.

Beauty and You

By PATRICIA LINDSAY

If you wish to create memories on your wedding day, you will take time out from all the hurried preparations to consider your bridal coiffure at least a week before the big day.

You'll want, of course, a hair-do which will set off your veil to advantage, but should also consider how it will look with your going away hat. Remember too, that the coiffure you have on your wedding day will be with you the first week or two of your honeymoon. You will not want to take time, then, for a couple of hours at the hairdresser's while the brand new groom hangs around waiting for you!

Thanks to the snood fashion on this season's hat it is possible to have the smartest of hair-dos—even though it is a bit elaborate as your veil and hat snood will keep it in place.

Much depends upon the style of wedding dress you have, and the veil which goes with it. Intelligent girls take both their veil and snood to a hairdresser at least ten days before the wedding day. He considers both and sets your hair in fetching manner. You have a full week to train your hair in the new fashion before the final setting—which should be a day or even two days before the wedding.

During those two days you will be careful to keep the curls pinned in place and you will spend a little time each day massaging your scalp with finger tips to coax natural oil to come out and give your hair a charming sheen.

Suggestions for Coiffure

The popular line this season is to have the front and side of your hair combined up and away from your face, where it is set pompadour fashion or in brief curls. The top of your head is not covered with these curls—they form sort of a halo for one ear to the other.

The back may be rolled and pinned up—the roll beginning at the lobe of one ear and extending to the lobe of the other. Or, if your ends are short you may have brief ringlets set in the same line.

Girls who have had the their long bobs may divide the back hair right in the center and roll each side toward the center, pinned low on the neck. This is ideal for the "snood" fashions—both the ornamental ones to wear at night and the snoods on daytime hats.

Nothing, in my opinion, is more messy looking than a long bob, shoulder length, on a bride who wears a period dress. Her veil tops her head and her hair hanging down each side looks for all the world like a shaggy dog's ears. Period dresses demand a sculptured hair style, or a sleek "up" one if your hair is long.

One of the most charming brides of this season combed her hair up in pompadour fashion in front and sides and tied the ends high with white satin ribbon and a spray of flowers. Her veil was caught in with the bow. She then spread the veiling out in back and caught it again at the nape of her neck with another satin bow and flowers. From there the veil cascaded down over her shoulders down to the train of her gown. This gave the effect of a dark head against a lively white cloud—and the net chignon sleek line of hairdress was preserved in front and at the sides.

If you are going to be a bride, heartiest best wishes and write me if I can help you with your beauty! Cosmetics and Gifts for the Bride is a free leaflet. Enclose a self-addressed, stamped (3-cent) envelope if you request it. Write me care of this paper.

way I do. Maybe my mood is contagious. We used to be so gay around here, a couple of schoolgirls playing at romance.

"What are you going to wear to the dance, Laura?" Your turquoise satin?"

"I'm not going," Laura said quietly.

"Not going to the Yacht Club dance? Why, Laura, where's your patriotism, or local pride, or social consciousness, or something. See how brave I am, Laura. Can't you be the same? What's the matter with you? You haven't lost anything."

Laura lifted her head proudly but her face looked as forlornly pathetic as a child's. "Donald was in yesterday. It's the first time I've seen him since . . . since . . ."

Cecily knew when that since was. She hadn't seen Locke since that day.

"Go on," she said gently. "Donald was in, and—"

"He said he was very sorry to disappoint me but business calls him to . . . some other place. I didn't even hear the name of it. He regrets that he will be unable to be here."

"And what do you make of it, Mrs. Atwill?"

Laura said tonelessly, "What is there to make of it? He doesn't want to see me again. He doesn't want to be seen at the dance with me. He thinks . . . oh, what he thinks is dreadful!"

Now, see what you've done, Cecily Stuart, getting your friends in trouble!

"Oh, Laura! I'm so dreadfully sorry. That old stick-in-the-mud!"

Teacher Shouldn't Put Child In Position of Spy, Informer

BY ANGELO PATRI

There is a kind of monitorial service which, in my opinion based on much experience with school children and teachers, no pupil should be asked, or permitted to perform. Molly's note explains what I mean.

"Last year I was monitor. It was my duty to write down the names of pupils who whispered. Should I write down the names of my best friends? I didn't last year. I was very angry at me. If I do not write them down and write honest? What ought I to do? This gave me a lot of trouble last term. I want to do what is right, but I don't want to lose my friends."

No child ought to be asked to accept such a responsibility as this in the first place. It is not a child's duty to maintain discipline in a classroom. It is the teacher's place. No child should be placed in the position of spy and informer, and that is what this monitorship forces.

Why is whispering such a crime in school? The answer is because it indicates that the children are not attending to their lessons. Let's go a bit deeper. Why are they not attending? Because they are not interested. Why are they not interested? For one or more of a varied lot of reasons, all going back to the simple fact that their work is not properly adjusted to their needs.

The needs of children are: Activity, leadership, understanding. A teacher who understands children will supply the other two. In the old-fashioned school, pupils were held like prisoners in punishment cells. They had to sit, stand or walk, according to rule, and the first rule was silence. The next, equally important—indeed there were no rules of lesser importance in those days—was obedience. When obedience was demanded for these unnatural ways of living the strain on the children was very severe and often ended in rebellion. Luckily that time has passed.

The school system, the supervisor, the teacher, who insists upon silence, surrender of personal direction and initiative, is out of date. What schools and supervisors and teachers are asking for now is co-operation from the older children, not dependence. To the little children they offer leadership coupled with well-planned programs that interest the children. To all children activity is offered in the place of inactivity. The doing school is now set in the place of the old sit-and-listen school. That does away with the policeman monitor, and removes the reason for his presence.

Children talk to each other about the work in hand and are not driven to seeking relief by whispering behind their hands.

There is a new kind of monitor. He is a helpful person who tries to help the teacher to get things done easily, without waste of time and effort. It is his duty to prevent any necessity for policing if he has to resort to calling for help he understands he has failed. His monitorial experience is planned deliberately by the school heads, as a course in social service. This is a far cry from the older notion.

So my answer to the little girl monitor is: No. Don't take the job. To help the teacher, it does not belong to you. It doesn't belong anywhere in today's school.

Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him, in care of this newspaper, enclosing a 3-cent stamp, addressed envelope for reply.

Good Taste Today

WEDDING OBLIGATIONS

Dear Mrs. Post: As our dear departed Will Rogers used to say, "I am not sufficiently Emily Posted," so I am asking you to help me. My daughter is to be married in a town quite a distance from here. It is, however, midway between our home and the groom's home, and is where both the bride and groom want to hold the wedding. I would like to know is this: There will just be the immediate families of the bride and groom, and since the bride's family takes care of all the wedding arrangements under ordinary circumstances, shall we be hosts to the groom's family in our case? That is, shall we make their hotel reservations and have the amount put on our bill?

Answer: This rule is rather elastic. In some cases the bride's family provides accommodation for almost any number of the groom's as well as their own family, but this is unusual only when they are very well-to-do. It is not an exactation, but it is courteous if possible to invite the father and mother and younger brothers and sisters of the groom to be your guests at the nearest hotel. Other relatives of theirs can be expected to engage their own accommodations.

A Dance for a Daughter

Dear Mrs. Post: We are having a very small dance at our house for our daughter. This is not called a debutante dance, since people here do not give such parties, but it does approximate somewhat a coming-out party. However, in keeping with the community, we want to have everything as simple as possible, and for this reason we do not know what kind of invitations we should send. Between sixty and seventy-five invitations will be sent to about fifty boys and girls, and about twenty of our own friends.

Answer: Use your husband's and your double visiting card. For this purpose have some struck off on a fairly large-sized card. Write across the very top, "Small dance for" and on the line below, "Miss Mary Smith"; then below your names write at the left "Sat, Dec. 7" and on the line below that, "dancing at 10 or 9 o'clock"; and on the right side, over your street address, "Rsvp."

Marking Silver

Dear Mrs. Post: My flat silver was bought a few years before I married and is marked with an "S" for my maiden initial. Would it be possible for me to have it changed or made into a monogram to include my present initials?

Senate Majority Follows President In Embargo Repeal

Foreign Relations Body On Record to Debate Issue, Lawrence Says

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington—The senate foreign relations committee, Republicans and Democrats, have erased the strange action of last summer when, by a close vote, the decision was made to refuse to report to the senate the bill which had been passed by the house modifying the existing embargo on arms.

Today the committee has gone on record in favor of debate and no suppression.

Last summer, the committee refused to allow the subject to go to the senate on the ground that there was no need for it and that no war was coming anyhow was a major blow at the administration, which quietly accepted its defeat and waited for further developments.

The president at that time said that the senators were "gambling" as he hoped they were right. If war did not come, there would be no harm done, but, if war did break out, American business might be adversely affected by the trade restrictions.

Actually, the events of today, while somewhat in line with the president's prediction, do not as yet signify any great damage to American business and industry, and there is the added advantage now that the whole subject will be debated in the light of a set of circumstances that could not have been viewed as realistically last summer as they are today.

Issue at Stake

The vote which the American congress takes, now that war has broken out, will mean more than the vote on the existing statute. For, if the embargo is retained, it will indicate that the American people have made up their minds to forego rights to trade in the midst of a war, and, if the embargo is modified, it will be serving notice to all the world that America, as the leading nation, does not intend to surrender her right to trade with neutrals in her own ships or to sell at her own doorstep to those who come in belligerent ships with cash.

The 16 to 7 vote by which the administration's non-partisan proposal has just been reported to the senate is not necessarily a measure of the strength of the proponents or opponents. The defenders of the present embargo recognized that it would be a mistake in tactics to hold up action in the committee and attempt to delay debate. The nation wants the issue to be placed before the senate for discussion at once, and next week the fireworks will begin.

Many senators on both sides of the controversy, irrespective of party, will wish to speak in order that their constituents may know exactly how they stood. Many organizations have sent messages and letters and telegrams which will doubtless be made a matter of record, but it seems unlikely that the debate could take more than two weeks at the outside, for, by that time, every conceivable argument will have been made and hardly a vote will be changed.

Senate for Repeal

It begins to look as if nearly all the senators, while not publicly committed, have taken a stand one way or the other. The administration has a clear majority for its proposal. Unless some unforeseen development occurs, the senate will pass the measure reported Thursday out of the senate foreign relations committee.

The exact parliamentary status which will then ensue is a matter of doubt. The house of representatives has passed a bill eliminating the cash and carry provisions and amending the existing embargo in certain particulars. Whether the senate measure then goes to the house for discussion or whether the house bill is amended by the senate and the whole thing goes to conference is as yet to be disclosed.

But delay is not as readily used as a weapon in the house as in the senate. Debate can be limited. There is beginning to be a realization that the sooner the embargo is disposed of, the better for everybody, including the politicians who are restless to be up and at it. They have a better chance to resume po-

Neutral Rights Stepped on By Both Sides in Modern War

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER

Washington—One senator, commenting on the self-denying insulation provided in the new neutrality bill, said he would have to hang his head if he voted for it.

He said the bill must have been drawn by a Caspar Milquetoast, and that it was cowardly to relinquish all of our trade rights on the seas and make felons out of men who exercise their right under international law to trade with belligerents.

It is too bad that a United States senator, of all people, must suffer with shame. But after all, senator, it's a hard world and we have to make a choice. We have to decide whether one senator shall hang his head or whether several million American youths shall stand ready with arms to rush over to Europe and avenge American business men who get hit while enjoying their "right under international law" to trade with belligerents.

Unflattering as it may seem, the country is likely to prefer seeing a United States senator wandering about with bowed head. That is not nearly as hard to take as the sight of hundreds of flag-draped coffins, laid out row on row in the pier sheds of New York, which was what it cost us to avenge our "rights under international law" before.

Theoretically the senator has a right to walk on the public streets of Washington. But if he encounters a burning building, the police order him out of the way of falling walls. Similarly under certain conditions, there are international rights which it is wiser not to exercise.

Thus far debate over neutrality, or keep-out-of-war legislation, has been fortunately free from cheap political bluster about our "rights."

There has been an encouraging consideration for the larger rights and for the welfare of the country as a whole. Most persons have enough common sense to know that, in modern wars, neutral rights will be stepped upon by both sides and cannot physically be exercised in full.

Al Smith, who was never one to be pushed around, is strongly for the new bill. So is John W. Davis, who has the lawyer's natural tendency to be quibbling over "rights," and so is J. P. Morgan, who has devoted the last few years to campaigning for assertion of the rights of American citizens at home. If they can accept this bill, which they do enthusiastically, and manage to hold up their heads, the rest of the country probably will be able to take the bill without losing self-respect.

In some small details, the bill needs working over.

For instance, section 2 (A), which forbids American vessels to carry passengers or materials to belligerents, makes an exception for Canada, but makes none for airplane traffic in the western hemisphere which at several points lands in litical combat when the neutrality legislation has been disposed of, than while the issue is being dragged out through the coming weeks.

There are so many domestic questions crowding for consideration that the administration has actually gained an advantage by the sudden appearance of an embargo controversy which, had it been properly handled last summer, would have meant that political campaigning for 1940 would by now have been fully under way.

Some other details may need tinkering to minimize dislocations to shipping and foreign trade. But the fact might as well be faced that the legislation will pinch in spots. Some hardships will have to be endured for the larger good.

The way of the neutral is not easy—but it is a good deal easier than that of the belligerent. The voluntary surrender of a few customers is a small concession to Mars. If this impels some to hang their heads in shame, let them do so forthwith. Others will save their

New York Woman Is Elected President Of Legion Auxiliary

Chicago—(P)—Mrs. William H. Corwith, of Rockville Centre, N. Y., was elected president of the American Legion auxiliary Thursday.

The five divisional vice presidents selected were: East—Mrs. Charles B. Gilbert, Norwich, Conn.; Central—Mrs. Lawrence Smith, Racine, Wis.; South—Mrs. C. W. Harris, Bishopville, S. C.; Northwest—Mrs. G. E. Chambers, Cut Bank, Mont.; West—Mrs. Al J. Mathebat, Alameda, Calif.

The new president was born in Hillsdale, N. Y., in 1898 and taught in New York schools until her marriage to William Corwith of Rockville Centre, she became a charter member of her local unit in 1926 and has been active in the auxiliary since.

Resolutions endorsing the American Legion's stand on neutrality and its action in withdrawing from Fidae, international organization of World war veterans of the allies armies, were adopted unanimously by the auxiliary.

Both were introduced at the business session by Mrs. Byron Harris, Gary, Ind., chairman of the resolutions committee. Mrs. Robert Lincoln Hoyal, Douglas, Ariz., speaking for adoption, said both questions had been studied thoroughly by the legion and that the auxiliary should accept the men's stand.

Madison Man Elected Head of State Bakers

Milwaukee—(P)—J. P. Wolsley, Madison, was elected president of the Wisconsin Bakers' association Wednesday at the closing session of the annual convention. He succeeds William D. McIntyre, Eau Claire.

Other officers chosen were: Walter Lane, Janesville, vice president; F. H. Laufenburg, Milwaukee, secretary, and Grant C. Van Ness, Milwaukee, treasurer.

Phil S. Hanna, editor of the Chicago Journal of Commerce, told the convention of European war had injected an element of uncertainty into what appeared to be a business boom. An encouraging sign, he added, was that industry continues at a level pace, buying only for immediate needs.

Beloit College Wants to Have Aviation Course

Beloit—(P)—Beloit college officials announced Thursday they had applied to the civil aeronautics authority for a flight training course for a maximum of 20 men students. any of us. Besides, I don't blame him."

"Don't blame him? Laura Atwill, haven't you any backbone? What in Sam Hill can't you tell him? Tell him what an idiot he is! He's been asking you out—'sparking', they call it up here—all summer. His intentions must have been serious. So what are you afraid of?"

Laura did not answer her. "If I were you, I'd send a note over to his bank asking him to please drop in this afternoon. Then when he gets here, I'd back him in to a chair and say, 'Look here, Donald Hemingway, what sort of a girl do you think I am?' Then I'd tell him the truth."

"It sounds easy enough, Cecily, but it isn't," Laura was saying. "You seem to forget that I can't tell Donald any more than I can tell you."

"Oh!" Cecily groaned. A little later she said determinedly. "We'll show Mr. Hemingway! You're coming to the dance tonight with me. We've two extra men to stay at our place. The Penny twins are coming and Dr. Kettering, Aunt Olivia's pet physician, and a man named Francis Smith will be there. They'll be delighted to have you."

"That's sweet of you, Cecily, but I'm afraid not."

The dance was on Saturday. It had been Wednesday when Donald had told Laura that he had to go away on business. On Friday Cecily asked Laura if she would change her mind.

Laura had looked pained to have to refuse but she had remained adamant.

Then, Saturday morning, Laura had gone to the post-office for the mail, bringing their joint mail back in a bundle. Cecily took the bunch of letters, saw that there was one from Doug, three or four for the shop, and one for Laura, the latter addressed in a strong, masculine handwriting.

She passed them on to Laura and slit the fat, stuffed envelope of Doug's letter.

Doug was coming home! She skimmed the lines first to get that news then she read his almost unreadable scrawl slowly, page by page.

"Doug's coming home," she announced, looking up. Laura said, "Is he? How nice!" Her head was bent over her letter. "If your invitation still holds good, I think I'll accept it. I've... I've changed my mind about the dance."

"Grand!" Laura tore her letter into infinitesimal pieces and scattered them on the burning hearth.

"Then that wasn't... er... Donald isn't coming..." Laura said. "That wasn't from Donald," Laura said.

The dance Tony Richardson looked at her

"Don't be long. The music is good," he said.

The girls crossed the floor to the dressing-room. Cecily paused at the door and took a sweeping, appreciative glance at the main lounge where the floor was cleared for dancing.

"Now, aren't you glad you came?" she said to Laura. "This is your handiwork and it does look beautiful!"

Laura didn't say anything. "What, by the way, did make you change your mind?" Cecily asked. Laura's mouth closed tightly.

Jack Frost Will Include Appleton On Tonight's Trip

Weatherman's Prediction Of Showers Finally Materializes

"The Rains Came" last night and Jack Frost is coming tonight. The weatherman's oft repeated predictions of "probable showers" finally materialized early last evening but it turned out to be a drenching rainstorm accompanied by a brilliant lightning display. The storm, replete with thunder, died to a drizzle during the night and the drizzle faded as the morning progressed.

Momentary power failures were reported in various sections of the city and a total of .74 inches of water had fallen up to 9 o'clock this morning.

Gardeners were busy today as plants were being removed or covered in preparation for the invasion of Jack Frost. Florists began thinking about anti-freeze solutions for their radiators and a new item, fuel, turned up in home budgets.

Mercury Checked
Brisk winds today dispelled the pleasant temperatures of the last few days and heavy, gray clouds blotted out the sun, the thermometer on the roof of the Post-Crescent building registering 45 degrees early this afternoon.

Highest and lowest temperatures during the 24-hour period preceding 9 o'clock this morning were 83 degrees at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon and 46 degrees at 8 o'clock this morning, according to records at the power plant of the Wisconsin Michigan Power company.

Generally fair weather is predicted tonight and Saturday with temperatures expected in most of the north-central states. Somewhat warmer is expected Saturday afternoon.

Maximum and minimum temperatures in the nation yesterday were at Los Angeles, Calif., and Omaha, Neb., with 85 degrees and Williston, N. D., with 25 degrees, according to the Associated Press.

Cabbage Resists Yellows Disease in Test Demonstration

About 100 persons including students of the agriculture classes of Seymour and Shiocton High schools were at the cabbage plot demonstration Thursday at the Rudolph Locke farm near Shiocton.

J. F. Magnus, county agent, said the test plot this year proved that cabbage seed being sold in this area is resistant to the yellows, a cabbage plant disease. However, some black rot was found in the plot.

Two plots, planted with non-disease resisting seed, showed losses from yellows, one up to 15 per cent, he said.

West Brothers to Fly at Milwaukee

Appleton, Menasha Pilots To Appear in Field Day Sunday

Elwyn West, Appleton, and Luther West, Menasha, will compete in the annual Aviation Field day of the Wisconsin Civil Air Corps Sunday at Curtis Wright airport on Highway 41 north of Milwaukee.

The day's activities will open with a breakfast flight to West Bend. The return trip from West Bend to the airport will be the opening event of the day's program and will be a navigation race in which instruments will be masked.

More than 100 planes will then roar over Milwaukee in a mass formation flight. "Bomb" dropping contests, an air race, a parachute jump, and other events are scheduled. The meet is open to the public.

Sophomore Advisers Outline 9-Week Counselling Program

Home room advisers to the sophomores of Appleton High school met Thursday afternoon to outline a 9-week counselling program for underclassmen. The meeting was conducted by Miss Sophia Hense, German instructor, and Miss May Webster, commercial instructor, who represent the sophomore advisers on the general guidance committee.

The general problem with which sophomore advisers are concerned is that of orientation, with the objective of helping students to become adjusted to their curriculum and surroundings included in this wider problem are such topics as manners in school, budgeting time, the meaning of the report card, methods of study and a knowledge of the high school building.

Each sophomore will be given a mimeographed sheet which explains in full the philosophy of the grading system and the report card. He will be asked to take this home to his parents that they, too, may have an opportunity to learn the rating system. In addition, he will receive an outline of good study habits and a self-rating chart for those habits.

Junior advisers at the high school will deal with the problem of character and personality adjustment. Miss Adela Klumb, head of the English department, and Miss Alice Peterson, English instructor, are working out suggested projects. The seniors will study vocational guidance. Miss Mary Baker, dean of girls, and Edgar Hageme, social science instructor, have charge of this section of the counselling program.

Copies of Game Laws Available

John E. Hantschel, County Clerk, Gets Supply From State

Sportsmen who have been unable to secure game law booklets now may get them at the office of John E. Hantschel, county clerk, or from the usual agencies in the county, Hantschel said today.

A supply of the booklets has been received from the state conservation department with an explanation of the delay that has caused some irritation among hunters because they were unable to study the regulations.

In order to expedite shipments, the pamphlets are being sent direct to county clerks from the printers, the conservation department announced.

"It would be out of the question," the department explained, "to conduct the state-wide meeting of the conservation congress early in the year and expect to secure qualified recommendations for new regulations, since it would be impossible before that time to anticipate, with any degree of accuracy, what the game population and conditions will be for the coming hunting season."

Final approval of the laws was received Aug. 31 and less than three weeks later, 30,000 law pamphlets were released by the printers, the department stated, and distribution was made as evenly as possible.

rest of the Europe with conclusion of a German-Russian non-aggression pact.

Von Ribbentrop left Moscow at 12:40 p. m. (3:40 a. m. C. S. T.) by airplane after receiving Augusto Russo, Italian ambassador to Russia, to give him a text of the agreement.

He also paid a brief visit to the Moscow agricultural exhibition before going to the airport, where an honor guard brass band played and swastika flags flew.

Von Ribbentrop had not left the massive, stone Kremlin until 5 a. m. (8 p. m. C. S. T. Thursday). Highlights of the agreement, as announced here:

1. Establishment of a mutual frontier through Poland. It was reported that allowance still existed for creation of a small Polish protectorate state.

2. Warning to third powers not to interfere with the new boundaries.

3. An agreement to strive for peace.

4. An agreement fully to develop economic relations. Russia promised to supply Germany with raw materials in exchange for industrial goods over a long period of time. This was an expansion of the trade pact which briefly preceded the Aug. 23 non-aggression pact.

The soviet promise of raw materials to Germany might prove a tremendous factor in war. Wheat, timber, manganese and cotton were regarded as the principal commodities involved, possibly with some petroleum and coal.

Goodland's Vote Defeats Heil's Gross Tax Bill

minute that our lieutenant governor beat us."

Although Governor Heil when he hit upon the gross income tax plan as a solution for the administration's financial crisis two days ago took pains to consult all the Republican and Democratic members of the senate, and to confer with them at length, the lieutenant governor did not figure in the deliberations.

The senate president's decisive action in killing the Heil administration's last, desperate proposal to balance the huge state budget proved to many observers that there is little accord between Goodland and Heil on administration policy, despite all the denials from both sources of such rumors during the long session of the legislature.

Senator Jess Peters of Hartland, who consistently opposed the gross income tax in caucus and on the floor of the senate yesterday, visited Heil immediately after the latter's vote.

He reported that he had had an angry exchange with the chief executive.

The repeated refusal of the state senate to pass a tax bill—whether a sales tax, an income tax, special commodity taxes, or the newest tax in the form of a levy on gross income—illustrated, according to experienced capital observers, that the senators fear to enact additional taxes in the face of public demands for lower costs of government.

Would Compare Ballots

Replying to Governor Heil's assertion that he would guarantee the reelection of every legislator who approved the gross income tax, Peters yesterday declared flatly his opinion that such an assessment would have meant the death of the Republican administration in the next election.

"I wish I was up for election next year; I'd compare ballots with him," said the Washington and Dodge county representative who will be a hold-over in 1940.

Meanwhile assembly opponents of the Heil gross income tax proposal declared that the lower house would have killed the measure even if the senate had approved it.

Many assemblymen are angry because they have repeatedly braved the opposition of lobbyists and a hostile public opinion to pass tax

Poland Wiped Off Map Under Russo-German Partition Plan

By the Associated Press
The new accord of Moscow partitions Poland for the fourth time, Germany and soviet Russia sharing her territory almost equally. Poland is wiped off the map; there is to be no Polish buffer state.

It gives Germany more than the earlier military occupation line, which gave Russia about three-fifths of Poland's area.

Germany gets all of Warsaw city, most of Warsaw province, the entire course of the Vistula river, the province of Lublin.

Of the six largest cities, Russia gets only two—Lwow and Wilno. Germany gets Warsaw, Lodz, Poznan and Krakow.

As described by the German communiqué, the boundary line begins in northern Poland at the southern tip of Lithuania and runs west north of Augustow to the East Prussian border, which it follows to the Fisa river.

It runs along the river about 40 miles south to Ostroleka, thence southeast 40 miles, meeting the Bug river at Nur, 60 miles northeast of Warsaw.

It follows the San to its source at the Slovak border.

Poland was first partitioned between Prussia and Russia in 1772, a second time by the two powers in 1793 a third time by these two and Austria in 1795.

Weekly Thrift Program Is Dropped in Schools

The weekly savings program carried on in Appleton grade and junior high schools has been discontinued this year, according to school authorities. The thrift program was dropped because, administrators believe, the objects of the program were not being realized. Pupils, instead of earning and saving their own money, were asking money of their parents just to keep up their school averages.

are many wild flowers. There are numerous trails for miles in all directions from the camp site, many of which lie wholly on the lands owned by the power company and which will therefore be available to the Girl Scouts for hikes and nature study.

Swimming and boating facilities are excellent as there is a fine bottom for shallow water swimmers as well as those who have acquired deep water swimmer rating.

The current in the lake at the camp site is negligible since the whole shore line of the site lies within flowage from the White Rapids dam. There is a good gravel road connecting County Trunk K with the camp site, and in addition there is a shore trail which follows the entire shore line. The loop arrangement makes it possible to put gates at both ends which when locked will prevent any vehicular traffic within the camp area.

The surface of the site lies approximately eight feet above the normal water level and the sand and gravel soil formation affords excellent drainage facilities. The highest prominence on the point is known as Porcupine Hill and rises about 10 feet higher than the average level. On this hill is located a permanent structure about 16 feet square which has been given to Appleton Girls Scouts by the power company so that it can be occupied immediately and which can be used as an office or headquarters building for the camp. It overlooks the entire shore line of the peninsula and the neighboring islands which might be used for over-night camps or picnics, thus affording ample supervision of all activities. A canvas and screen house suitable for use as a first aid unit has been given to the scouts by the power company also.

Two Routes To Camp

The camp site may be reached by either of two routes, one via Amberg and the other by way of Marinette and Menominee. Both have good roads since both are United States trunk highways to Amberg and Stephenson, Mich., respectively. Between Amberg and Stephenson there is a macadam county trunk highway which should afford no difficulties of travel in transporting children or their parents. Railroad and bus facilities are available also at Amberg and Stephenson.

First steps in preparing the camp for occupancy next summer will be taken this fall when a well will be drilled.

Tales of Staggering Losses at Long Battle of the Aisne Were Front Page News 25 Years Ago

BY VIOLA HELLMANN

The long drawn out battle of the Aisne continued to be the main war news as the World war of 1914-1918 went into its third month. In the Daily Post and the Evening Crescent, Appleton's two daily newspapers, residents of the city read 25 years ago this week that the battle had entered its twelfth day with little apparent gain for either side and that although the losses were already 100,000 men for the Allies and 180,000 for the Germans, both sides were bringing up big guns, and the fighting continued unabated.

Other reports which came to American readers from the European capitals that week informed them that Rumania had finally de-

September Construction Activity Exceeds Last Year by Wide Margin

Estimated building for September is over $90,000 exceeding last year's total for September by a wide margin, the inspector said.

It would be in the interest of all nations to bring to an end the state of war presently existing between Germany on one side and England and France on the other.

"Both governments, therefore, will concentrate their effort, if necessary in cooperation with other friendly powers, toward reaching this goal."

"Should, however, the effort of both governments remain unsuccessful, the fact would thereby be established that England and France are responsible for a continuation of the war, in which case the governments of Germany and the U. S. S. R. will consult each other as to necessary measures."

Informed sources here said it was too early to say how Germany and Russia might try to re-establish peace in Europe.

Whether the Berlin-Moscow agreement forecast proposal of a peace conference to which such neutrals as Italy and the United States might be invited was not yet known, these sources said.

"I wouldn't do it if I'd known," said Durkin.

Rechester, N. Y.—Delegates to the annual national convention of the Women's Christian Temperance Union pledged 10,000 local units today to campaigns to stamp out "anti-social and unmoral conditions."

Mrs. Ana Marden De'Yo, national secretary, said in her annual report that the W.C.T.U. had enrolled more than 3,600 new members each month this year and predicted achievement of the Frances E. Willard centenary goal of a 50,000 increase.

The case of the Swedish steamers Gertrud Bratt and Silesia, is worth studying for the light it throws upon the problem before Congress. These ships were carrying wood products from Sweden to England. They were sunk this week by a German submarine and in a semi-official communication the German government justifies the sinking on the ground that wood is war material because cellulose is used in making explosives and lumber is used in coal mines which produce fuel that "is absolutely necessary for the production of war materials."

It is stated in Berlin that "the German submarine commander only did his duty in hindering the transportation of cellulose to Britain since from there it would have returned to Germany in the form of high explosive shells."

Thus, we see that neither in theory nor in practice does the German government recognize that there is any difference between the goods carried by the American embargo and the goods that are not covered by the embargo. Everything that a belligerent would wish to buy is to be treated as contraband of war; the Germans argue, in substance, that since no belligerent can afford to buy goods of any kind that are not necessary to the prosecution of the war, it is unnecessary to search a ship bound for Britain if imports are equally liable to destruction.

Nazis Acknowledge No Such "Trademark"

That being the position of the German government as stated in words and confirmed by its acts, what becomes of Senator Vandenberg's contention that the special embargo on arms is "the international acknowledged trademark of neutrality?" The German government acknowledges no such trademark; it expressly insists that raw materials will be treated as indistinguishable from the finished products listed in the embargo proclamation.

Sensor Vandenberg has only to study the case of these two Swedish ships to see that he is trying to make a distinction which has been expressly repudiated by the German government. If his object is to protect the United States from becoming "the target" of one side because it is "the arsenal of the other side," then, as the experience of Sweden proves, all exports are equally a target.

But if the Senator studies the situation as disclosed by the case of the Swedish ships he must in all fairness, it seems to me, conclude that what made Sweden a target was not the character of the goods sold to Britain, but the fact that they were being carried in Swedish ships. It was the destination of the ship and not the nature of the cargo that made Sweden a target. Any other cargo in a Swedish ship bound for a British port would, as the Germans frankly tell us, have been destroyed since any cargo bound for Britain must be important for Britain.

This fact is the basis of the Pittman bill. It recognizes that the belligerents do not make any distinction among cargoes destined for their enemies. Therefore, it embargoes the ships which carry the cargoes. In repudiating the distinction between arms and other materials, a distinction that in principle, practice, sentiment and morals, no one abroad acknowledges as having anything to do with neutrality, the Pittman bill enacts two new embargoes, in many ways more comprehensive than the existing one. Whereas the present law lays an embargo on the armament industry, the bill before Congress places an embargo on the shipping industry and upon finance.

If the opponents of the bill now take the position that they approve the new shipping and financial embargo but must retain the arms embargo as well, they will find themselves in a very awkward position indeed. For they will then be arguing, though they cannot be their real intention, that it is perfectly "neutral" to impose additional disadvantages on the Allies after war breaks out, provided Nazi Germany retains all its advantages.

They have been telling us, have they not, that it is "unneutral" to change the rules of the game once war has been started. Well, the embargoes which they like and approve in the Pittman bill change the rules of the game. They lay embargoes which prevent the Allies from buying transportation and credit. These two embargoes are of great importance. They did not exist when war broke out, and if it is "unneutral" to repeal the embargo against selling arms, it is just as "unneutral" to lay two new embargoes against the sale of transportation and credit.

Should Oppose All Changes in Law

Men like Senator Vandenberg and Senator Borah cannot have it both ways; if they really believe it is "unneutral" to change the law now, then they should oppose all changes in the law now.

If, on the other hand, they approve the proposal to change the law and lay the new embargoes, then they ought not insist on retaining the distinction set up in the old embargo. For that distinction is repudiated by the German government. To insist on the distinction is inadvertently to adopt a view that is more pro-German than that of the German government.

If the German government makes no distinction between one cargo and another, why do these Senators insist that the Congress of the United States must make the distinction, and in the name of neutrality pile new embargoes on the old embargo to the increasingly grave disadvantage and peril of the Allies? They should certainly not wish the country to believe that they are acting on the assumption that it is neutral and safe to injure the Allies but unneutral and dangerous to make a move which might displease the other side.

What If Allies Should Lose War?

The fact of the matter is that all this legislation is based on the idea that when the Nazis have a grievance they are dangerous, whereas the Allies may be hurt because they cannot and will not retaliate. Whether all of us realize it or not, this is a gigantic gamble that no matter how many difficulties we impose upon them, the Allies will nevertheless, win the war.

But suppose they do not win it. What then? Does the Congress think that governments like those which now rule Britain and France would be able to make peace with a victorious Hitler? The defeat of the Allies must almost inevitably mean a revolutionary upheaval in Britain and France, and the rise of governments that are capable of coming to terms with the totalitarian states. In the week before war broke out, Hitler offered the British an alliance. They refused. But another British government, one brought into power by defeat, would have no reason and, above all, no means of rejecting the alliance. And where with Russia occupying Germany's "living space" in eastern Europe, where but in this hemisphere, in the rich defenseless lands that we, with our navy tied up in the Pacific, are nevertheless pledged to defend?

It is not prudent, therefore, to assume that we can safely hurl embargoes at the Allies because for the time being they are unable to reply.

Reserve Officer Describes Army Testing Ground

Major Hussner of Appleton Speaks at Neenah Rotary Meeting

Neenah—Major H. C. Hussner of Appleton, an officer of the ordnance department of the reserve officers corps, described the army proving grounds and test fields at Aberdeen, Maryland, in a talk to members of the Neenah Rotary club at the Valley Inn Thursday noon.

The major spent part of last summer at the 65,000 acre testing area in training. The area is heavily patrolled and entrance is through only one gate for safety and security, according to the major.

Value of the testing ground is estimated at $220,000. Details of the testing and training there were described by the reserve officer. The testing included guns of all kinds and calibers from small rifles to those weighing 60 to 70 tons, powder testing, storage of ammunition, trench warfare methods, automotive work and flying.

The area has its own public utilities and even its own railroad in order to move the high railway mounted guns around. The importance of thorough testing was stressed by the speaker who pointed out that one handful of powder more in several miles of it might cause a serious accident.

Original "Big Bertha" The museum which contains examples of all kinds of allied equipment used during the World War was pointed out as a tourist center. Other interesting objects at the camp are the original "Big Bertha" gun captured from the Germans and a 4,000-pound bomb. Now planes carry two 2,000 pound bombs instead.

The results of bombing were viewed from the air. "A 2,000 pound bomb tore a whole over 300 feet in diameter and over 117 feet deep, large enough to put this entire building in," the speaker said. "Gentlemen, I don't want war. I don't want to be anywhere near where those bombs are dropping."

The major also declared that a new bomb sight permits American flyers to hit a 300-foot circle in three out of five attempts from 30,000 feet up in the air, nearly six miles. Planes are invisible to the human eye at that height and the United States has no anti-aircraft guns which will reach that height.

The reserve officers don't want war. We have nothing to gain and everything to lose in war. We are only doing our duty. It is your congressman who declares war—write to him."

Guard Company Is Seeking New Men

Company I Strength Will Be Increased From 67 to 83

Neenah—The enlisted strength of Company I will be increased from 67 to 83 men, according to orders received from the adjutant-general's office at Madison by Captain Howard Whitman of the Wisconsin National Guard. Similar increases are being made in all rifle companies.

The recruiting period will end Oct. 5. At least 21 men over 18 years of age can be accommodated by the company. Any persons interested have been asked to report at 7:30 either Tuesday or Thursday night at the armory.

Efforts are being made to get the company up to full strength so all members will have a full year of training before going on maneuvers next summer at Fort Knox, Ky. The company in the past has participated in a maneuver every four years and in other years has attended a field camp of instruction for two weeks each summer at Camp Douglas.

All unserviceable property has been sent in and Captain Whitman is ready to requisition new clothing. All new members of the company will get new outfits. The company now has almost entirely new equipment.

Thursday night the company started its annual indoor range firing. Members of the company must qualify with the .22 calibre rifle before they can fire the .30 calibre type.

A party for all company members, including those interested in joining the company, will be held next Tuesday night following the weekly drill. Entertainment will be planned by the non-commissioned officers.

Shawano High to Oppose Menasha Gridders Tonight

Teams Will Clash in Conference Tilt at Butte des Morts Field

Menasha—The Bluejays of Menasha High school will oppose Shawano High school at 8 o'clock tonight under the lights at Butte des Morts field in the second Northeastern Wisconsin conference game of the season for both teams.

The Indians are among the top teams of the conference again with an impressive 20 to 0 victory over West De Pere. The Shawano team again has a powerful defense and permitted the Phantoms to invade Indian territory only once in the game last week.

The Bluejays, however, lost a 21 to 6 decision in their game with Kaukauna and are one of three teams tied in the league cellar. The Indians, with Bill Reed as their mainstay, rank as favorites in the game tonight.

Menasha was handed a 27 to 7 defeat last year by the Indians at Shawano, the most decisive defeat the Jays have received in recent years. Coach N. A. Calder and his squad would like to even that account but by Bill Reed still around, the task will be difficult.

Veteran Lineup

The Shawano lineup, a veteran team, probably will start with Anderson and Lindroth at ends, Hacker and Nehls at tackles, Baumeister and Waeichil at guards, and Schweers at center. The backfield will have Cantwell at quarterback, Reed at left half, Berton at right half and Doan at fullback.

The Bluejays will have Wippich and Grode at ends, Martell and Dempsey at tackles, Funk and De Long at guards and Kenneth Wolf at center for probable starters. The backfield probably will be O'Brien at quarterback, Sheleski and Nantke at the halfbacks and Robinson at fullback. Drexler may get the starting call at fullback and Schmitzer may open at quarterback.

Officials will be A. C. Denney of Lawrence, Lonnie Darling of Oshkosh and Ray Monteith of Appleton. The kickoff is scheduled for 8 o'clock and the gates will open one hour earlier.

Neenah Red Cross Making Plans for Annual Roll Call

Field Representative Confers With Chapter Officials

Neenah—Plans for the 1940 Red Cross roll call to be conducted from Nov. 11 to Nov. 30 are being made this week by the Neenah chapter, American Red Cross, according to Harry M. Brown, roll call chairman.

Miss Frances Vogler, field representative from St. Louis branch of the National American Red Cross, was in Neenah during the week to confer with chapter officials. A meeting of the executive committee was held Monday afternoon to formulate plans for the roll call. E. E. Lampert, C. B. Clark, Harry M. Brown, C. F. Hedgas, Mrs. C. E. Clark, Mrs. E. C. Arneemann, Mrs. J. F. Gillingham, Miss L. Evelyn Scholl, Charles Madison and Norton J. Williams are members of the executive committee. During the last roll call, 103 percent of the population of Neenah were enrolled in the Neenah chapter.

Mr. Brown stated that membership this year must be increased because of the demands which are being made on the International Red Cross. The American Red Cross already has been asked for aid for stranded and shipwrecked Americans and for medical and hospital supplies. The Neenah chapter is planning also to start a program for production of surgical dressings and garments.

St. Mary Squad to Meet New London Gridders Tonight

Zephyrs Stronger With Resch Again Working in Backfield

Neenah—St. Mary High school gridders will engage in their first night football contest tonight at New London when they oppose the Bulldogs of the Northeastern Wisconsin conference. The game also is the first meeting of the two schools on the gridiron.

The Zephyrs probably will be stronger than when they lost to Kaukauna 26 to 6 in the first game of the season. William Resch is back on the squad and carrying the ball from a halfback position instead of fullback. Resch was injured in the Kaukauna game and did not play last week.

The halfbacks in the game tonight probably will be Coopman, a shifty runner, and Farnham Johnson, a reformed end who should make an efficient blocker. N. Griesbach has been shifted from half to quarterback and may get the starting call there. However, Don Hooks is certain to see action in the backfield as will Al Taves.

Miller, Day at Ends The starting lineup for the Zephyrs probably will have Lee Miller and Tommy Day at ends, J. Lingnoffski and Foth at tackles, Birling and V. Lingnoffski at guards and Carl Rothe at center.

Coach Robert Zuercher, had a chance to try many reserves under the conditions last week against the Kaukauna Indians and some of those reserves may get more chances to play tonight.

The strongest reserves included Elmer Dorzwiler, Verbrick, and Bayer at ends, and Lalley, Giesen and Huelsbeck in the line. New London no longer has its great backfield star, Iko Popcke, but Coach Greg Charlesworth apparently has a strong squad.

Poppy is a pass-receiving end on the Bulldogs team and scored one for a touchdown against Clintonville. G. Melkjohn, the other touchdown against the Clintonville. The New London backfield has Melkjohn at quarter, Pues and Clark at halves and Houk at fullback.

Attempt to Make Good Citizens of Prisoners Waupun—Warden John C. Burke of the state prison told the St. Jude's league last night that Wisconsin follows the penal theory which places more emphasis on rehabilitation of criminals than punishment.

"We try to treat Wisconsin prisoners fairly so that they will realize what it means to return to society as good citizens," Burke said.

"We maintain a school for prisoners and do our best to teach them trades that will enable them to earn a livelihood."

Highway Program Near Completion

County Crews Have Oiled About 115 Miles of Road This Summer

Outagamie county highway workmen are nearing the end of their summer oiling and grading program, according to Arnold Krueger, county highway commissioner.

Crews have oiled about 115 miles of county trunk road this summer and still have to oil about 25 miles. The 140 miles of road which were oiled during 1937 and 1938, had to be rebuilt this summer, Krueger stated.

Grading of 10 1/2 miles of new road have been completed, with a 4 1/2 mile stretch remaining between Stephentown and Hortonville. A mile of new road has been graded on County Trunk E and 2 1/2 miles of new road are being built on County Trunk A. An additional mile of new road also will be graded this season on County Trunk EE north of County Trunk S.

The oiling and grading program will be completed before the regular meeting of the county board in November, Krueger said.

Business Group Urges Rigid U. S. Neutrality

Milwaukee — The Milwaukee Association of Commerce, going on record for strict neutrality, said yesterday "business does not want war orders if they are to endanger peace in America."

Charles W. Pendock, association president, said a resolution adopted by the board of directors calls upon the president and congress to do all in their power to keep America out of the European war.

Copies are to be sent to President Roosevelt and the Wisconsin congressional delegation.

When Bolos Get Bumped They Should Get Bumped Out Loud

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York — In view of latest revelations before the Dies committee and of the Nazi-communist alliance in Europe there is no longer any excuse, much less a reason, for the retention of communists or fellow-travelers in the federal government. Mr. Dies, in fact, says the administration has asked the department of justice to eliminate 2,850 communists holding government jobs, and, while the purpose is laudable, the method is bad, because, if he is correctly informed, and he is quoted, this delousing will be done quietly, which is just the way the bolos work in unions and government projects. The correct way is to throw them out, not ease them out, and to sing out their names as they bounce into the gutter, so that the country can be sure that none remains, and, more important, that it is not the bolos who are getting rid of the Americans instead.

Certainly there is no justification now—not that there ever was—for the employment in government positions of men and women who either belong to the communist party or have declared a belief in the Soviet government as the greatest experiment ever made for human betterment, whatever the party affiliations of the latter group may be. Anyone who does or did belong to the conspiracy, or who intentionally gave aid and comfort to the enemy, must have known that this was an anti-American movement directed by a foreign dictator.

A few avowed members and double-dome tag-alongs have sadly declared their disillusionment since Hitler and Stalin became political and military allies, but they are not to be trusted, because the very fact of their having allied themselves with Moscow in the past proves that the truth is not in them.

Some fellow-travelers now profess to have been simple, sincere do-gooders who didn't know what it was all about, but they are more to be scorned than pitied by those who had to endure their vicious slanders and dirty little parliamentary plots conducted in the guise of liberal movements. They are not harmless doves; they are just licked and whining.

Admitted Counterfeiting American Passports

Two heads of the communist party in America—one current, the other ex-admitted to the Dies committee that this Soviet agency of theirs counterfeited American passports, and they personally used such forgeries in their travels. And the ex-chief, Gitlow, confirmed, as an insider, the counterfeiting of American money by the Soviet government.

His later estrangement from the party has no effect on his status among Americans, for it was not any decent patriotic objection to these treacheries against the land which gave him citizenship and security a matter of political control in the American branch of the party.

And now, if it be advisable to kick these individuals out of government positions, it follows that private employers, too, must be allowed to rid themselves of conspirators and saboteurs who, up to now, have enjoyed the protection of the labor relations board. The communists own projects in the United States, including communistic publications, cannot consistently object to such a purge because they themselves insisted that all their employees shall be party members and reserve the right to fire, for political reasons, anyone who falters in his loyalty to the Kremlin.

The communist in private employment, however, invariably makes a great display of union activity, and if fired as a communist.

Fall Drought May Harm Wheat Crop

Southwest, Nebraska, Dakotas Show Excessively Dry Spots

Chicago — (AP)—A fall drought which has overspread the farm belt threatened today the first American "war crop" of wheat since 1918.

Days without rain or with only scattered showers have created the worst fall drought in years for some sections, a survey showed.

The drought has delayed soil preparation and wheat planting well beyond normal dates. Wheat farmers in the south have seeded into the dust and hastened to apply for federal crop insurance.

Premature ripening of some late corn resulted in light, chaffy grain but removed the danger of frost damage. Corn harvesting in the main producing belt was underway at the earliest date on record.

In sections already sown to wheat the drought has prevented or retarded germination. Young plants have been killed off before their roots could tap sub-soil moisture reserves, dangerously low in some regions.

Little pasturage apparently will be available for cattle and unless rains come soon winter winds may play havoc with plowed land bare of top growth.

The farm belt survey showed excessively dry spots in Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas, Nebraska and the Dakotas as well as in scattered areas of Iowa, Missouri, Arkansas and Indiana. The soil was abnormally dry in most of the other big grain-producing states.

With wheat prices raised about 15 cents a bushel by the war—they are 17 cents higher than a year ago—farmers were intent on seeding the 1940 crop. Much acreage now being put in to permit producers to qualify for insurance may have to be abandoned, crop experts said.

Suit Against Griddler Settled Out of Court

Oskosh — (AP)—A circuit court suit brought by Germaine and Frank Dolan, Oskosh, against Milton Gantenbein, Green Bay packer end, for $10,500 for alleged injuries in an automobile accident last April was settled out of court yesterday with payment of $1,400 to the plaintiffs.

YOUTH IS INJURED

Racine — (AP)—Robert James, 14, playing with a dynamite cap he had found, was injured seriously when the bulletlike object exploded. He suffered the loss of three fingers and an eye injury.

Recently this column carried news of stamps issued by two nations currently involved in war: Poland and Japan. The Polish issues might well be the last from that land for some time to come. This week we record a new stamp from a third warring country, France. The postal, which has a value of 30 centimes, represents the Chateau de Pau—a 14th century castle in a town in southwestern France.

The other French stamp design illustrated here is a 70-centime blue postal. The stamps was to have been issued to mark the inauguration of service by the new French trans-

Atlantic liner "Pasteur," and that event was scheduled for September 9.

But times have changed since it was planned to use her in trans-Atlantic service. At last reports, having bobbed back and forth between a few French harbors, the "Pasteur" was at the port of Brest. She is not expected on this side of the ocean any time soon.

The first printed franks, comparable to the stamped envelopes and covers of modern times, were issued in 1653 in Paris, M. (afterwards Count) de Villayer, with royal sanction, sold letter-covers or wrappers bearing a distinctive mark. His footmen collected and delivered letters in such wrappers, removing the stamps upon delivery.

Early schemes for the establishment of mail stamps were far from popular. The idea of prepayment of postage by stamps was suggested in Sweden in 1823, but the plan was not adopted. First beginnings of the present stamp-mail system were not made in Britain until 1840.

The first Geneva, Switzerland stamp (1843), was a divisible one.

Lutheran Welfare Body Elects 7 Directors

Eau Claire — (AP)—Seven directors were elected at the annual meeting of the Lutheran Welfare society here Wednesday night. They were: The Revs. August Boetke, Milwaukee; N. B. Hansen, Racine; G. L. Bongfeldt, Eau Claire; A. C. Baughman, Milwaukee; H. A. Michelke, Mayville; H. C. Neemann, Cottage Grove, and C. R. Olson, Milwaukee.

A board meeting will be held at Milwaukee Oct. 6 to elect officers. At that meeting Dr. C. E. Krumbholz, New York, executive secretary of the welfare department of the National Lutheran church, will be speaker.

School Laboratory Has New Guide to Weather

A recent addition to the physics laboratory of Appleton High school is a barograph, which makes a continuously running graph of weather conditions. In this way, according to Clem Ketchum, head of the science department, an accurate prediction of weather conditions can be made each day. "Unsettled" was the prophecy for Friday.

The whole was used for cantonal letters, and the half for letters within one commune.

Brazil's first stamps carried large numerals of value. It was proposed to use the effigy of Dom Pedro upon them, but the idea was dropped because it was thought that the obliterating of Dom Pedro's picture would show lack of respect for that sovereign.

FORM STAMP CLUB

Ten pupils of McKinley Junior High school have formed a stamp club which meets each Monday at the school. The members plan programs and will auction stamps at meetings. Members are Roman Meier, Edwin Sinn, George Schaefer, Carleton Selig, Ralph Van Sūpen, Floyd Glander, Robert Vander-Linden, George Weinfurter, Donald McGillan and Robert Schrimpt.

mors that Earl Browder, now general secretary of the American Communist party, had difficulty exchanging "a $10,000 bill" for expenses in China more than a decade ago.

The witness said he did not know that a man named Lazovsky sent the bill to the United States for Browder's communist activities in China or that Browder was sent there by the Provintina, a Russian trade union organization which Foster said was not identified with the communist international.

Foster also denied knowledge of Browder making a trip to Manila to get the bill changed. Matthews said a bank teller said Browder would have to wait overnight until the bill's serial number could be checked with the treasury department here.

"And don't you know that the treasury department has a record of that?" Matthews asked.

"The treasury department has a lot of records that are not correct," Foster replied.

Matthews dropped this line of questioning and took another tack. In response, Foster related he had made about 10 trips to Russia.

Vikes Primed for First Grid Victory

Meet Northern State Teachers of Marquette, Mich., Here

INVADERS STRONG

Beat Oshkosh Peds Monday; Will Show Heavy, Veteran Line

LAWRENCE college football team, winner of the 1938 Midwest conference championship, will open the current grid season here at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon against Northern State Teachers college of Marquette, Mich. It will be the first meeting of the schools in their grid history.

A year ago Lawrence won a title and went through its season defeated in only one game despite a squad which numbered about 22 men and of which only 15 saw regular service. This year, with a squad of about 33 and with practically every man a good prospect, the Vikes should have things easier. But not if you listen to Coach Bernie Heselson.

Heselson hasn't been pleased with the work of his ends and he'll point out that last year it took passes to the wingmen to snatch a couple games out of the fire. It's a line from tackle to tackle is all right but he'd be pleased with another husky guard.

Bussing Looks Good
In the backfield, the Vike mentor has at least three good backs who can deliver but the only one he's been inclined to praise is Co-Captain Ken Bussing. The other two show flashes of ability but aren't consistent.

Going over the various positions, Vince Jones and his 285 pounds are certain to start at strong side tackle. It will be Jones' second year of varsity ball and he again should be an all-conference selection. The other tackle will be Bill Weiss, 215 pounds, or Al Steinfeld, Neenah, who tips 185 pounds and is faster than Weiss.

At one end there is Jack Nyström, a veteran performer who can be depended upon defensively but who has to prove his worth offensively, especially on passes. The other end will be a choice between Jarvis Lingle, who has worked most of the year at end, and Heide Kirchoff. Both are sophomores and must be tested. They also have a bit to be desired in the pass catching department.

Only three guards are listed on the Lawrence program but there are others down as tackles and one as a center. The first selections probably will be Al Florin, a powerfully built chap and Perry Powell. The latter has been nursing a bruised shoulder most of the week and if he isn't used the assignment will go to John Roddy. All are playing varsity ball for the first time.

Garvey at Center
At center, Dick Garvey is a fixture, a veteran and a co-captain. The Appleton youth will be playing his third season and should have a great year barring injuries. His first understudy will be Robert McIntosh.

In the backfield, the Vikes will have two left halves who probably will share their work unless one suddenly becomes a standout under the pressure of competition. They are Bob Everett and Frank Vencki. Everett is rangy and fast; Vencki is stocky and shifty. The former probably will figure in long runs, the latter in shorter, consistent gains. Both can pass while Everett is the better punter.

The right half is Co-captain Ken Bussing of Appleton and at the moment Coach Heselson will proclaim him the best back. And perhaps he is. He's an excellent punter and passer and his running has been sensational and consistent. He also is at his best when the chips are on the boards and is an outstanding defensive player.

Kaemmer a Veteran
At fullback, Heselson again will show Art Kaemmer, who showed well there last season. He is faster and more confident with this, his second year of ball, and he is another performer the coach likes to talk about. The quarterback will be Bob Romano, a sophomore, who will be getting his first taste of varsity ball.

The Teachers defeated Oshkosh Teachers by a 6 to 0 score last Monday evening on a recovered fumble that led to a touchdown. Reports are the game was rough with numerous fumbles with Marquette. The Vike backfield will be heavier because the invader quarter goes only 140 pounds.

Weights of the invaders indicate the line will compare favorably with Lawrence's except at Jones' tackle. The Vike backfield will be heavier because the invader quarter goes only 140 pounds.

Bruised, Battered Terrors Invade Manitowoc Saturday; Oshkosh at East Tonight

FRIDAY'S GAMES
Oshkosh at Green Bay East.
Fond du Lac at Sheboygan Central.

SATURDAY'S GAMES
Sheboygan North at Green Bay West.
Appleton at Manitowoc.

WITH only one lad of his starting eleven unbruised and unblemished, Coach Myron Seims will take his Appleton High school football team to Manitowoc tomorrow afternoon with little more than another bruising and a defeat in prospect.

The Terrors came out of last week's game with West in poor physical condition and this week Seims has had everyone but the mascot—Wayne Gerharz—in almost every position as he attempted to find a fair combination for the Saturday battle.

Indications are that Tom Reider, an end, will be found in the Terror backfield when the squad carries the ball. He is the best passer and runs well. However, he'll be back at end when the team is on defense. Seims probably will not use Marvin Filz against the Ships because of a badly infected arm and generally poor physical condition.

Pegel will call the signals and do the punting for the Terrors with Brasch again performing in the fullback slot. He'll be at defensive tackle, however, when Manitowoc has the ball. Fraser or Zueleger will be at the other half. Fraser still is troubled with a bad leg and may not do much.

The offensive line for the Terrors will have Kleifoth and Burton at the ends. Kleifoth will play in the backfield on defense. Heinritz will be at the right tackle and Koss at left tackle. The guards will be Junge and Koleszka, the former on the strong side. Crabb will be at center.

Ships Experienced
Manitowoc will pit an experienced line and a new backfield against Appleton. The Ships have beaten Two Rivers and Fond du Lac to date but Coach Nello Pacetti insists that the squad isn't clicking. In both games it was the running attack which functioned best. The squad threw few passes and probably won't take to the air unless stopped on the ground.

The Ships probably will open with Steckmeyer and Fricke at the ends; Hansen and Wetenkamp at the tackles; Wolfgram and Boedy at the guards; and Albrecht at center. In the backfield there will be Manthey, reported to be a sensational ball carrier, and Tadych, halves; Schmitt quarter and Krohn full.

The week's conference play opens tonight with two games. Oshkosh goes to Green Bay East for the outstanding contest for it will show East attempting to set a new record for consecutive games won. The Red Devils have 31 to their credit and have tied Milwaukee East's mark. However, the Bays will find Oshkosh with a strong line and a hard-running back in Alden Luker. The other game tonight will have Fond du Lac at Sheboygan Central. Tomorrow's other game finds West entertaining Sheboygan North.

THEY'LL SHOW IN KIMBERLY-ST. JOHN GAME AT LITTLE CHUTE

Kimberly and St. John high school football teams will clash tomorrow in their annual grid struggle. The Little Chute ball park will be the scene of the contest and a record crowd will watch for both villages will close up and trek to the game. The teams won opening games last week, the Chute by a rather large score. At the left, Harold Dercks, St. John end, is shown grabbing a forward pass. The K-K-K boys bearing down on the right are three Kimberly linemen, left to right, Joe Van Sambeek, Henry DeWilde and Anthony Van Stralen. (Post-Crescent Photos)

Packer Coaches Fight Against Letdown on Part of Charges

GREEN BAY—Fighting any possible letdown as the result of the team's victory over the Chicago Bears last Sunday, Coach Curly Lambeau continued to send the Green Bay Packers through a series of stiff offensive and defensive workouts this week in preparation for the game against the Cleveland Rams here Sunday. The tilt, at City stadium, is scheduled to start at 2 p. m.

With Detroit, Green Bay is packing the Western division of the National Football league with two wins and no defeats. Cleveland, on the other hand, has dropped its two initial league contests, and is gunning for a victory. It is just the type of situation that leads to upsets, and with the Rams having one of the league's strongest backfields, Lambeau is frankly apprehensive about the result.

Bud Svendsen, center from Minnesota, bruised a number of ribs in the contest against the Bears and may see only limited service against the Rams. This will leave most of the work to a pair of rookies, Tom Greenfield of Arizona and Charles Brock of Nebraska, with Lee Mullenbaux, a veteran from Arizona, also available.

Outside of Svendsen, injuries were numerous but not serious as the Packers settled down to work this week. Dick Weisgerber has been working into the blocking back position and Frank Balaz, rookie from Iowa, is slated to give Clarke Hinkle and Eddie Jankowski considerable relief at fullback.

Larry Buhler, the former Minnesota fullback who has been used at right halfback with the Packers, also will get more work Sunday. Assistant Coach Richard Smith has been drilling his line to meet the thrusts of Corbett Davis and Johnny Drake, a pair of first rate fullbacks, and the off-tackle and end running of Parker Hall. Clayton Smith, Kelly Moan, and a half dozen other fast stepping backs who supplement the already dangerous Cleveland aerial attack.

Rain Wins Decision Over Trucks. Firemen
Clintonville — The baseball game between the Clintonville Truckers and Chicago Firemen last night was stopped in the second inning by rain. The game was to be played this morning but rain again prevented play.

Sunday Clintonville will meet Seymour here in the second game of the Northern State league series. Seymour won the first game last week, 4 to 0.

Men's Fancy Sox, 7c Pair GEENEN'S

RAMS CUT SQUAD
Cleveland — The Cleveland Rams of the National Football league announced last night the release of Kelly Moan, former West Virginia University halfback. The Rams further cut their squad by sending Riley Matheson, former Texas Mines tackle, to Columbus on option.

Pie Traynor Resigns As Pittsburgh Manager
Pittsburgh —(AP)—Harold (Pie) Traynor yesterday resigned as manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates, a job he had held since June, 1934. A successor has not been selected. President William E. Benswanger accepted the resignation, effective

Sunday, with "regret" and announced Traynor would be retained by the club, probably as an assistant to Joe Schultz, head of the pirate farm system.

Benswanger said he would "get busy at once" to find another manager. Reports current here said that Frankie Frisch former St. Louis Cardinal pilot, would get the job.

Injuries to Keep Badger Center Out Of Marquette Tilt

Doyle, Slated to See Much Action, Will be on Sidelines

MADISON—(AP)—Bad news fell on the University of Wisconsin football camp yesterday when it was learned that Johnny Doyle, Erie, Pa., alternate center, would be unable to play in the opening game of the year against Marquette tomorrow.

Doyle, injured a week ago, was slated to see much action. Now the duties fall squarely upon the shoulders of Jack Murray, of Plymouth, Pa., and the third string pivot for the past three years, Orville Fisher, of Fargo, N. D. Fred Ladewig, Milwaukee sophomore center, also on the sidelines with an injured leg, will see little if any action.

Along with the loss of Doyle and Ladewig, Coach Harry Stuhldreher announced that Howard Kaewer, Oshkosh tackle, and Cliff Phillips, Libertyville, Ill., end, would not be used against the Hilltoppers.

Badgers Clicking
Yesterday's drill saw the Badgers click on all phases of the game. Assignments were seldom missed, passing, running and kicking duties were well handled.

George Paskvan, starting fullback from La Grange, Ill., will play with a special half cast on his hand. He had been kept out of scrimmage all week because of an injured hand. The remaining first string lineup is in perfect physical condition.

At the conclusion of the drill Stuhldreher announced that Fred Gage, Green Bay quarterback, would handle all of the punting on the first eleven and would share the place kicking duties—if the opportunity arose—with acting Captain Bob Eckl, Milwaukee tackle. The reserve booting would be done by Bob Peterson, Aurora, Ill., sophomore, with Rex John, Manitowoc, clicking over the place kicking efforts, Stuhldreher added.

Wisconsin's probable starting lineup will have Gordon Gile, of Shorewood and Al Lorenz, of Oak Park, Ill., ends; Eckl and Al Dorsch, of Wauwatosa, tackles; Bob Holloway, of Chicago and Dick Embick, of Laurel, S. D., guards; Murray, center; Gage, quarterback; Bill Schmitz, of Madison and Tony Grudnik, of Milwaukee, halfbacks and Paskvan at full.

Art Felsch First in Line for Series Ducat
Cincinnati —(AP)—Art Felsch, of Milwaukee, who styles himself a baseball comedian in slow motion, bobbed up with a steamer chair and two blankets yesterday to become the first fan in line for world series games scheduled here Oct. 7 and 8.

He took his place by a Crosley field game before the Reds had applied their 5 to 3 pennant-clincher against the St. Louis Cardinals.

League Club officials said they had had asked waivers on him, had received no offers and released him outright.

St. John Ready for Kimberly Tomorrow

Little Chute—St. John high graders eased up with a light drill today in preparation for the big game with Kimberly high team at the local park Saturday afternoon. The outcome is a tossup for the teams are matched evenly as to weight. Kimberly's first game of the season had the Papermakers coming out on top, 13 to 12. Two punts were blocked for touchdowns with Gaffney kicking the extra point to win Little Chute won an easy battle from Kiel by a 39 to 7 score.

Cincinnati Reds Clinch Pennant

Paul Derringer Hurls
Deciding Win; Beats
Cards, 5 to 3

ENDS CLOSE FIGHT

Many Experts Still Believe St. Louis Better Team

BY JOHN FRYE
CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)—No longer do they sigh, "Remember when?"

Gone were those long, lonesome years of being kicked from back-bay to the shores of Lake Michigan and the Banks of the Mississippi.

Hail to the champions and hail to the team of Cincinnati Reds that rooted itself from the depths to the stars in two years.

Hail to the champions and write these names large—Werber, Frey, Goodman, McCormick, Lombardi, Craft, Berger, Myers. Write these names in gold—Derringer, Walters.
And write this in letters of fire—
McKechnie.

Hail to the champions and salute the St. Louis Cardinals, who gave nothing and, by a 5-3 score, stepped out of the National League pennant race as game a club as ever fought its way through a woolly season and lost only when it met a team and a man who wanted victory the worst way and got it the best—taking the breaks and refusing to accept the doctor's diagnoses.

Some Like Cards Better
For there are those who say the Cardinals are the better team.

There are those who say the Cardinals could give the New York Yankees a stiffer fight in the world series.

But there are none who say the Reds didn't work for every one of the 85 victories that gave them their first National League pennant in 20 years and their second in history.

It was peculiarly fitting for the Reds, the oldest organized professional ball club, to clinch baseball's centennial celebration by winning the National League pennant. For all you may say that there were other teams who haven't had a chance at the flag for 100 years many years, people were pulling from coast to coast for the Reds.

Just why no one knows.

Maybe it was the color of the gang. Maybe it was that skyrocketing bid for the 1937 season to the 1939 championship. Whatever it was, they won.

They won as more than 17,000 people alternately lived and died in the gathering shadows of yesterday's afternoon. They won as Paul Derringer fought back a tide of St.
Louis batters big enough to win any two games this season.

Gives 14 Hits
This man from Kentucky saw 14 balls go singing past his ears and saw three more Cardinals get on base on errors by Billy Myers. He walked Johnny Mize (on purpose) once.

There was that seventh inning, when the Cards got four hits with nothing to show for the trouble but improved batting averages. And when the game was over, no matter how you held the box score, the St. Louis runs added only to three.

This man from Kentucky did what every rookie dreams of doing some day. With baseball history depending on every sweep of his arm, he struck out two of the heaviest sluggers in the league, Joe Medwick and Johnny Mize, on six pitched balls in the ninth to end the ball game.

The Cardinals aided and abetted
his cause no little by putting a low estimate on Ival Goodman's arm and Ernie Lombardi's arms. Joe Medwick started that seventh with a double but he wanted a triple and
Ival threw him out at third.

Johnny Hopp doubled for Curt
Davis in the eighth but strayed too far from second and Ernie cut him

INFIELD HARMONY AFTER REDS WIN PENNANT

Here is the Cincinnati Reds' infield in the clubhouse after the Reds had defeated the St. Louis Cardinals, 5 to 3, for their first National League pennant in 20 years. Left to right: Bill Werber, third baseman; Bill Myers, shortstop; Linus Frey, second baseman; and Frank McCormick, first baseman.

Beagles to Show In Field Trials

Kewaskum Event Will Consume Better Part Of Next Week

Beagles and beaglers in large number are expected to flock to Kewaskum on Saturday and Sunday, where the seventeenth annual fall field trials of the Wisconsin Beagle club will get under way. The little 13 and 15 inch trailers will be run on cottontail rabbits for championship points under American Kennel club license.

With seven stakes in the various divisions to be run off, the meet is expected to consume the better part of a week. A bench show will be held for beagles, whether entered in the trials or not. Sunday night, Oct. 1, William W. Blakely, Shelby-

Drawings for the all-age dogs, 13 inches and under, will take place
Saturday morning at 8 o'clock.
Drawings for succeeding stakes will follow each running. The field trial winners will be picked by G. C.
Wichmann, Ridgeview, Wis., and Fay
Crandall, Smithborough, Ill.

Worris Murphy, Green Bay, Club secretary, stated that the judging staff are high ranking officials, licensed by the AKC and have a reputation for rendering just decisions. He said they will likely draw a large entry. Entries need not be made in advance, Murphy said, but will be accepted right up to the time of drawing.

A good sized gallery of spectators is expected, especially for the Sunday running, the secretary said, and arrangements have been made to accommodate a big crowd comfortably.

The Cardinals aided and abetted
his cause no little by putting a low estimate on Ival Goodman's arm and
Ernie Lombardi's arms. Joe Med-
wick started that seventh with a double but he wanted a triple and
Ival threw him out at third.

Johnny Hopp doubled for Curt
Davis in the eighth but strayed too
far from second and Ernie cut him
down on the next pitch.

Little Chute—Orville Reffke blasted a 637 series to lead the scoring in the Lox Mill Bowling league Wednesday evening at Weyenberg's alleys. Henning cracked a 229 singleton to lead in high game honors and Rams totaled a 2,617 series and a 900 game for team honors.

Eagles and Giants staged the best match with the former taking the odd game. The first game had the Eagles leading by 11 pins, the second was copied by the Giants by 17 pins, and the Eagles won the third game by 3 pins.

Joe Strick topped the winners with a 568 triple and a 214 game while the Giants were held up by Erv. Feldbahn with a 540 series. He tied with Ehke for high game with 203.

Rams scored a clean sweep over the Cardinals. They were led by O. Reffke with his record 637 series on games of 225, 224 and 188. Henning paced the losers with a 229 game and a 537 series.

The Bears turned the tables on the Redskins and snared the odd game. Cell Peeters and Charlie Block were tied for the winners' high series with 533. Block showed a 200 high game. Johnnie Vanden Burgt led the Bruins with a 511 triple and was tied by De Coster for high game honors with a 193.

Lions turned back the Packers in three games. Paul Kostka topped the winners with a 553 total and a 202 game. N. Nole had a 209 singleton for high game and showed a 527 series for the Bees Trusters.

Cub-Box Series May Be a Major Playoff

Chicago—Chicago's Cubs and White Sox may convert their city series next week into a major league third place play-off.

The Cubs held third in the National league yesterday by a half game. The Sox were a half game out of third in the American race. Each had three more games to go. The Bruins against the St. Louis Cards here and the hose with the Browns at St. Louis.

The Sox were assured one record for the year when Pitcher Clint Brown turned in his 60th relief performance Wednesday against Cleveland. Garland Braxton of Washington set the previous mark of 59, in 1927.

Billy Herman, Cub second baseman and captain, gave the Cubs something of a record of their own yesterday when he became the first to sign a 1940 contract. Until last year Herman had been the most persistent of the annual Cub hold-outs.

Mel Hein is playing his ninth season as wonder center for the New York Giants. The real iron center, however, was George Traflet of the Chicago Bears, who played 13 seasons, participated in 201 games and was in action 158 hours as a center. That was a world and National league football record.

Teachers versus River Falls Teachers at River Falls; Carroll College versus North Central at Naperville Ill.

Fans Boo Decision For Joey Archibald

Washington—Joey Archibald is still the featherweight boxing champion, but the howl of protest which started when he was awarded a decision over Harry Jeffra of Baltimore continued unabated today.

Capital fight fans greeted the 2- to 1 verdict last night with boos and catcalls. They hurled newspapers at the ring and then hooted the officials.

Referee Benny Leonard voted for Archibald at the end of the 15-round bout, as did Judge Frank Schuyler. Judge O. U. Singer cast his ballot for the challenger.

The fight was close all the way and neither man was floored. Archibald, from Pawtucket, R. J. weighed 124½, and Jeffra scaled a half pound less.

Clash of Indiana Teams Is Feature Of Football Menu

National Honors May be At Stake in Notre Dame, Purdue Tilt

CHICAGO—S-men, B-men, even G-men will dot the gridirons tomorrow as seven Big Ten teams open their 1939 football seasons.

Tops, even to "letter" men, will be Purdue's clash with Notre Dame at South Bend. There the Brown-Brock-Belyene backfield combination will try to spell down and run down the Saggau-Sitko-Sheridan-Stevenson quartet of the Irish.

Although it was the inaugural game for both Hoosier schools, a national championship may be at stake. Each lost but a single game last year and were on the accredited list of national contenders.

Notre Dame with almost a dozen and a half letter winners back and Purdue with two dozen.

Another "natural" brings together Wisconsin and Marquette at Madison where the Badgers will spring their G-men—Tony Gradinski, Fred Gage and Gordon Gile—at their foremost non-conference rival.

Indiana and Nebraska, who battled to a scoreless tie last year, will try all over again at Bloomington. After Saturday's game, Indiana will not have another home contest until it meets Purdue Nov. 25 in the season's finale.

Other Big Ten teams starting tomorrow, all in home tilts, are Illinois, with Bradley; Minnesota, with Arizona; Iowa, with South Dakota; and Chicago with Beloit.

Block Works Out

A review of offensive and defensive maneuvers yesterday wound up Purdue's heavy workouts for the Irish contest. Lou Brock, who missed early practice because of an ankle injury worked out at right half, but Coach Mal Elward was undecided on whether he would start him Saturday.

Notre Dame, meanwhile, went through a workout against Purdue's "pet plays" but ended the day with Layden still dissatisfied with the team's progress.

Indiana, Iowa and Wisconsin had stiff drills. Northwestern and Michigan worked on forward passes.

Oldtimers Show Well as Baseball Season Nears End

Paul Waner, Lefty Grove, Dutch Leonard Figure In Recent Events

BY JUDSON BAILEY

Associated Press Sports Writer

W HILE the Cincinnati Reds and the St. Louis Cardinals have been busy deciding the National league pennant, some of baseball's old-timers have been occupied in establishing platforms for their 1940 contract negotiations.

Take Paul Waner of the Pittsburgh Pirates, who streaked from nowhere in one of the season's most spectacular hitting sprees; take Lefty Robert Moses Grove of the Boston Red Sox, Emil (Dutch) Leonard of the Washington Senators, and Oral Hildebrand of the New York Yankees—take 'em, if you can.

The eyes of the world may have been on that classic at Cincinnati—where the Reds won yesterday, 5-3, to clinch the National league pennant—but there were other fish to fry on the baseball front.

For one thing old man Moses—contrary to the legend of song writers—ain't dead. The fellow who has been pitching 15 years with great success in the American league and has been a mainstay of the second-place Boston Red Sox all season won his fifteenth game yesterday, 4-2, from the Washington Senators with a six-hit pitching job.

For another, Leonard, the knuckleball specialist whose name was never so much as breathed in early season calculations, took the second game of the doubleheader, 5-1, for Washington on a similar six-hit performance. It was his twentieth victory of the season.

Hildebrand Cops

Oral Hildebrand, discounted as a probable world series starter for the world champion Yankees, came up with a six-hit hurling chore yesterday to beat the Philadelphia Athletics, 8-4, in the first game of a doubleheader. Sam Chapman hit a home run in the ninth to win the second game for the A's, 5-4.

Rookie Babe Young hit a two-run homer and later scored the run that won the first game of a bargain bill for the New York Giants from the Philadelphia Phillies, 4-3. Bill Jurges batted in five runs with a pair of doubles to take the nightcap, 8-3, for the Giants.

The Boston Bees and the Brooklyn Dodgers divided a pair of tight pitching spectacles, Dick Erickson's four-hit work taking the first for the Bees, 3-1, and Lefty Vito Tamulis shutting out Boston in the second 3-0, on three hits.

At Cincinnati, Derringer gave 14 hits in getting his twenty-fifth victory, but the game was so wild anyone could have won. The Reds did, ending pennant speculation.

The standings:

	Games W. L. Behind To Play
Cincinnati	95 56 — 3
St. Louis	91 59 3½ 3

Chicago on pass defense and Illinois on kicking and passing, Ohio State took a light practice preparatory to an intra-squad scrimmage today.

At Minnesota, Coach Bernie Bierman had to dig up two new ends as veterans Bill Johnson and Bill Atkins turned up ineligible for Saturday's game. He concentrated on Ed Steinbauer, erstwhile fullback, and Fred Hull, who had been doing guard and tackle duty.

Heil Urges Klode For Chairmanship Of Public Welfare

Social Workers, However, Insist That "Trained" Person be Named

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison—Frank Klode, Milwaukee furniture man and life-long friend and adviser of Governor Heil, will be the director of the new state department of public welfare, it was reported in informal circles at the capitol today.

Klode will be chosen to what is regarded as the most important job under the Heil reorganization program by the new seven member board of public welfare recently selected by the governor under the Thomson act reorganizing the board of control and state welfare agencies, it said.

It was understood that Klode assisted Heil in the selection of the advisory board members, and that Heil will urge the appointment of his friend upon the members of the board.

Klode's was the first appointment to be made by Heil this year. He succeeded veteran John Hannan, long-time LaFollette Progressive figure, as the chairman of the board of control, the agency which has traditionally administered the state's penal and charitable institutions.

Under the reorganization act the board of control's functions have been merged with the administration of pensions, child welfare, and relief, into a new department of welfare.

Band Boosters at Clintonville Have First Fall Meeting

Clintonville — The Band Boosters held their first meeting of the season Wednesday evening at the high school with nearly fifty present. About ten new members were added to the roll at this meeting. Plans were discussed for a rummage sale this fall as a means of adding funds to the club treasury.

The business session was followed by a social period, during which seven tables of cards were played. High honors at bridge went to Mrs. Bernard Knapp and Mrs. R. F. Braun; while high score at schafkopf was won by Mrs. William Stuchman. The serving committee included: Mrs. T. A. Patterson, Mrs. Roy Peterson and Mrs. Joe Moser.

Miss Junia Greb, a graduate of Clintonville High school last June, has gone to Cincinnati, Ohio, to take a course at a dramatic school. Donald Greb and Eugene Thies left this week for Minneapolis to resume their studies at the University of Minnesota, where classes will begin Oct. 3.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Finnegan returned home Wednesday from Milwaukee, where they had visited several days at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Schwabach. While there they also visited the son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Finnegan, who are appearing in a vaudeville act at the Tic-Toc.

That great teacher soon discovered the boy's interest in acting and helped him to help himself into a school of the drama. Later John became an apprentice at Eva Le Gallienne's Civic Repertory Theatre. Members of the famous Group Theatre saw his work, approved, and he later appeared on Broadway in many of their productions. He was in "Golden Boy" when a talent scout got him the test which resulted in a Warner contract. His screen debut was in "Four Daughters"—and his brilliant performance at once made him a star. They can give plump girls the appearance of slenderness and add fictitious weight to girls who are too skinny. A retouching nose, a too prominent chin, eyes too close-set or too far apart—these are routine problems to correct and an expert movie cameraman works out the solution in the proverbial wink. But the result is standardized beauty—and standardized beauty is boring.

By Jimmie Fidler
 Hollywood—After hearing an ace cameraman describe all the tricks now used by lens-men to glorify the screen's glamour girls, I'm wondering if they—the photographers, I mean—are not responsible for the deadly sameness so noticeable of late in Hollywood's beauty brigade.

By juggling lights, using filters, make-up, they have learned how to labor today to make it seem smaller. Yet, that very same mouth certainly failed to hinder Joan's climb to stardom. Remember Gloria Swanson's tip-tilted nose. That, too, would be frowned upon now, yet it made Gloria stand out from the beauty brigade, gave her individuality and helped her to success. The screen could use a few more Crawfords and Swansons—right now!

Up until a few seasons ago, sweaters were things which women put on for comfort — and kept off putting them on until the designers achieved form-fitting and graceful lines in their creations. Let us show you proof that you can save $10 a month this winter with a new Frigidaire

• "Makeshift" refrigeration methods are costly as well as dangerous. Even in winter, temperatures are seldom within the zone of 32 to 50 degrees. U. S. Weather Bureau records bear that out. And, winter foods are kept within that zone, they spoil quickly!
By ending these losses, you can save as much as $10 a month with a new Frigidaire. That's the figure that present Frigidaire owners estimated they were saving, as proved by a national survey of over 38,000 women. So we say — by buying your new Frigidaire now — you'll save $30 this winter.

3 New Cheerleaders To Perform Tonight At St. Mary Grid Tilt

New London—Three new cheerleaders, selected by the student council at try-outs Thursday afternoon, will make their initial appearance before New London High school students at the St. Mary's football game at the city athletic park at 8:15 this evening.

Bernard Freiburger, James Jeffers and Marguerite Gehrke, juniors, were chosen as cheerleaders after a troupe performance before the student body in a general assembly in the high school auditorium. Six others tried out.

If the crowd which followed the team to Clintonville last Friday is an indication of the interest in New London's grid chances this year, the cheerleaders should have a good crowd to work on tonight. New London fans, student and adult, last Friday made up one of the largest crowds ever to follow a team out of town.

Variety of New Books are Added to Stock at Library

New London—Amidst a flood of news accounts and propaganda on the turmoil in Europe, the New London Public library this week offers among its new books Vincent Sheehan's "Not Peace But a Sword," in which the author surveys troubled Europe, throwing a hard light on scenes, incidents and personalities that previously have not been clearly revealed. Hailed as one of the most noteworthy, factual and sincere publications on the international conflict, his book is a personal history of a notorious year, March 1938 to March 1939.

New books of true life adventure include "Wind, Sand and Stars," a story by Antoine de Saint-Exupery, famous aviator, of his exciting and dangerous experiences in the Sahara and Libya, in South America, Europe and Asia.

The informal and intimate record of Amelia Earhart's life, looked upon by millions as a symbol of courage and adventure, is presented by her husband, George Palmer Putnam, in his book, "Soaring Wings." As one of the great women of the twentieth century, only few people knew the person behind the personage, the gay, sensitive, unfailingly modest girl who wanted to live life to the fullest.

The story of Desmond Holdridge's fothead adventures, experienced with two other sailors in a small, converted sloop which took them up the coast of Labrador and other far lands and light places, is told in "Northern Lights."

A new view of the Chinese is given by Carl Crow in "400 Million Customers." Having operated an advertising agency in Shanghai for 25 years, Crow learned to know the Chinese well and found them amusing and lovable.

Leonard Q. Ross, the creator of "Hyman Kaplan," becomes a reporter of particular abilities in his new book, "The Strangest Places," in which, with his tongue in his cheek, a keen eye for the incongruous and incredible and with a funny twist to his prose, he reports on people and places in New York, Washington, Chicago, New Orleans, San Francisco and Los Angeles.

Mrs. John Laeyendecker, Sr., Kimberly Avenue, and Mr. and Mrs. John Laeyendecker, Jr., Appleton, will motor to Racine Saturday to visit relatives. They will return home Sunday.

About fifteen women attended the Holy Name Study club meeting at Holy Name school Wednesday evening. The program committee appointed last spring, presented the work for the ensuing year which it outlined during the summer months.

This year it was decided to have the meetings from 7:30 to 9 o'clock on the second and fourth Wednesday evenings of each month.

RISE AND FALL OF BABYLON

X-End of the City
Babylon "fell" several times in its long history. It was captured again and again, and once its buildings were very badly battered and broken. Yet each time, except the last, it rose to new power. Built on the side of the great Euphrates river, it was a natural center for the once-rich area watered by that river.

The Ishtar gate, as seen today in ruins of Babylon.

Among the ancient records, we have the good fortune to possess one about Babylon which was written by a Greek traveler. His name was Herodotus. It is not certain that he visited the city personally, but he speaks as though he may have done so. His words agree in part with facts which modern scientists have learned by digging into the remains.

Here are some of the things this olden Greek reported:
"The Babylonians wear a linen tunic reaching down to their feet. Above it is another garment made of wool. Besides these, they have a short white cloak to throw around them."

"They have long hair, and wear turbans on their heads. They anoint themselves with perfumes. Everyone carries a walking stick, and the stick is carved at the top into the form of an apple, a rose, a lily, an eagle, or something else like that."

"The city of Babylon stands on a broad plain and is an exact square. Around it is a broad, deep moat, and a wall of great height. In the wall are a hundred gates made of brass, with brass sideposts. There is a second, inner wall, almost as strong as the first."

"The streets all run in straight lines. The houses are mostly three or four stories high."

"Among the buildings was a tower of solid masonry. At the base it was made one hundred (100) feet square. Upon this was raised a second tower, on that a third, and so on up to eight. The ascent to the top is on the outside, by a path which winds around all the towers."

"When one is about half way up, he finds a resting place. On the top most tower is a good-sized temple, richly adorned and with a golden table by its side. There is no statue of any kind in the temple. The only person who stays there at night is a woman who is chosen out of all the women in the land."

Those notes on Babylon were written about 2,400 years ago, while it still had some of its old glory.

We might almost say the city died of old age. In 375 B. C. the people in it were forced to move to a new city called Seleucia. After that it slowly but surely fell to complete ruin.

Creeping Jenny Topic at Parley

County Agents, Committees, Discuss Methods To Kill Weeds
 Possible methods to combat creeping jenny, a weed infesting counties in this area, were discussed at a meeting of county agents and county board agriculture committees from 12 counties Thursday at Chilton city hall.
 J. F. Magnus, county agent, attended the meeting and said he will seek funds of the county board to purchase the necessary chemicals to combat the weed in this county.
 Magnus said about four pounds of chemical should be used to the square rod, the chemical costing eight cents per pound. The area covered by weeds and six feet beyond the edge of the area should be treated.
 George Briggs, a specialist in field crops from the state college of agriculture, was at the meeting. Glen Lyceen, Sneyboyan county agent, showed pictures of methods used in his county.
 Magnus said some counties finance half the cost of chemicals to kill the weed while in other counties the township pays half the cost while the farmer pays the rest.

Farmers Can Aid in Preventing Spread Of Shipping Fever

The state department of agriculture in a bulletin to J. F. Magnus, Outagamie county agent, urges cooperation of farmers in guarding against the possible spread of hemorrhagic septicemia, or shipping fever, from imported to native sheep and cattle.

To prevent any spread of shipping fever, imported cattle or sheep should be kept separate from native livestock of the same kind for two or three weeks following importation or during the period of incubation, according to Dr. V. S. Larson, director of the department's livestock sanitation division.

As a safeguard against the introduction of this disease, livestock should always be shipped in cars or trucks that have been properly cleaned and disinfected, and, when enroute for feeding purposes, should be unloaded only at places known to be free of the infection.

During August, Dr. Larson said, Wisconsin imported 1,398 steers brought here on permit and placed in quarantine for feeding purposes. Many feeders also were brought in which were tuberculin- and Bang-tested for immediate resale.

During the same month 12,909 head of sheep were imported—a substantial increase over importations of previous years.

Higher Fat Production Shown by Heavier Cows

Twenty years of production records at the Agricultural Research center, Beltsville, Md., show that, on the average, larger cows produce more butterfat, according to a crop reporting service bulletin received by J. F. Magnus, Outagamie county agricultural agent.

There have been some notable exceptions in the herd, however. For example, one cow averaging only 1,255 pounds made a 715-pound butterfat record, and another cow weighing 1,546 pounds made only 454 pounds of butterfat.

Study of the relation between age of parents and sex of their offspring gave no conclusive results, although where dams of all ages were mated to one sire there was some indication that the proportion of female progeny increased with the age of the dam.

A tendency to have calves predominantly of one sex did not appear to be transmitted from dam to daughter, but there was some evidence that difficult breeding may be transmitted.

Winnebago Breeders to Hold Bull Sale Oct. 19

Oshkosh — Winnebago county breeders will hold a bull sale at Winnebago Thursday, Oct. 19. ## Farmers Still Favor Oats, Though Barley Yields are Greater

For every acre of barley, it is estimated that about an acre of oats is grown in Outagamie county, according to J. F. Magnus, Outagamie county agent.

The average for the state, as a whole, reported by Walter Ebling of the crop reporting service, is three acres of oats for every one acre of barley, and yet for a quarter of a century barley has out-yielded oats by 40 per cent in feeding value.

Gus Bonstedt, in charge of Wisconsin's program in livestock nutrition, has reminded farmers throughout the state that besides being well adapted to feeding practically all classes of livestock, barley surpasses oats per acre in tonnage and in actual feeding value.

"In spite of possible prejudices and long standing tradition of growing certain popular crops in a rotation, many Wisconsin farmers will undoubtedly consider barley when planning their next spring seeding."

A farm auction sale will be held at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning, Oct. 10, at a farm owned by Herbert Breitenbach located one mile south of Winchester and 24 miles west of Larson on Highway 110. Colonel A. J. Thiel will be the auctioneer.

by starting their fall plowing, according to J. F. Magnus, county agricultural agent. A few farmers still are filling silos, but the major portion of this work already has been completed in the county. A number of farmers still are busy with corn husking.
